CENSURE OF M'CARTHY IS URGED

Thieves Get Nearly $150 In 4 Week-End Breakins

Merriman Renews Pleas For Larger Force; Approximately $117 Taken At Northend Home

Circleville city police reported Monday that four burglaries had been committed in the city over the weekend, adding new fuel to the argument over a request for additional policemen.

A total of nearly $150 in cash was taken, most of it from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ice at 414 N. Pickaway St., which was entered Saturday night. Approximately $117 was taken from the residence.

Police said they had virtually no clues to aid them in a search for the burglars. However, Police Chief Elmer Merriman emphasized everything possible is being done in an effort to apprehend those responsible.

At the same time, he said the breakins give new accent to his repeated requests for more policemen. Last Tuesday, when city council voted down an ordinance that would have added five more policemen to the force, Merriman warned the lawmakers the police force is not adequate for community protection.

THE BURGLAR, or burglars, entered the Ice residence through a rear bedroom window. At the home of F. D. O'Hara, 906 Circle Drive, entrance was gained through a kitchen window screen and the house was ransacked. Police reported about $30 taken. At the home of Leon Minshall, of 934 S. Pickaway St., the burglars entered through a kitchen window. Apparently nothing of material value was taken.

The latest reported breakin was at the home of Gene Barthelmas on Sharon Rd. Police said the burglars in that case broke glass in a back door to let themselves in.

The latest cases of breaking and entering came only a short time after two others were reported in the city.

Despite the renewed attention drawn to Merriman's request for additional men, there was no indication that council is prepared to increase the police force. The police chief was given to understand a "modified" ordinance, calling for the addition of only two more officers, may be approved if the measure is drawn and placed before the lawmakers.

THERE WAS considerable doubt, however, even on that score. Councilman Richard Penn recalled Monday that the police chief had urged council to "pinch a few pennies in some of the other departments" in order to obtain funds for more police.

"I meant to ask Elmer," Penn said, "just which departments he has in mind."

Meanwhile, advocates of a larger police force declared the question is only being confused by pointing out the city also needs more firemen. They explain they do not challenge the claim, but contend it is "a different matter — and one that may be taken care of by the voters in November."

A "fire protection levy" which will be put on the ballot here in November would provide funds for "payment of firemen". There is no such provision for payment of additional city police, it was pointed out.

White Pupils Boycott School In Delaware

10 Negroes Show Up For First Time In Dispute On Segregation

MILFORD, Del. (AP)—Ten Negro pupils reported for classes at Milford High School today, but an undetermined number of white students stayed home in a dispute over an end to segregation.

Dr. George R. Miller, state education commissioner, said he had no immediate idea how many of the 1,500 pupils registered at the combination high-and-elementary school reported for classes "but said a normal schedule was being carried out."

The previously all-white school and the town's only other school, which houses 237 elementary grade Negro students, had been closed a week. The shutdown occurred when a group of Milford's 5,700 residents protested the attendance of 11 Negroes.

The school district's 11 buses operated without incident, but they carried less than half their normal daily load. Each bus usually brings about 35 pupils to school, but today the biggest load was 14 students, while three buses had no passengers at all.

MANY PARENTS brought their children in the family auto. Eight Negroes arrived this way, the other two by bus.

Meantime, a pro-segregation organization official, forecast a court battle if integration of the Negroes is continued.

Joseph M. Deanes of Hartley, Del., vice president of the National Assn. for the Advancement of White People, said a court injunction would be sought to keep the Negroes (Six boys and five girls) from attending classes with white pupils.

Deanes' statement came shortly before the scheduled reopening of the city's two schools.

There was an increasing number of reports that parents of white pupils will not send their children to the school, either because they fear violence might occur or because they were opposed to integrating their sons and daughters with Negro pupils.

This maneuver was given further impetus yesterday at a mass meeting of some 3,000 persons in this race-conscious town.

Bryant Bowles, president of the NAACP, told the meeting: "You certainly have the right to protect your child by keeping it at home if you are afraid there is going to be violence stirred up by the opposition. I would bar the door before it leaves and not after."

Ex-Convict Given Life Sentence

SIDNEY (AP)—An ex-convict, who pleaded guilty to second degree murder last Saturday in the drowning of a Piqua newsboy, will be sent to Ohio Penitentiary this week, county officials said. He is Robert J. Howard, 44, of Troy, who received a life sentence.

Police said Howard admitted rolling Leroy Urban Francis Jr., 12, into a creek after knocking him unconscious when the boy resisted improper advances. He lured the boy into his car by promising to take him fishing.

Common Pleas Judge Huber A. Berry, in sentencing Howard, recommended that he "never again be released to society."

Gap In Prices Needs Probe, Burke Claims

CINCINNATI (AP)—Sen. Thomas A. Burke (D-Ohio) yesterday called for a congressional investigation of the "constantly increasing gap" between dipping farm prices and rising retail food costs.

Burke, campaigning for reelection, told his audience the Eisenhower Administration is pursuing a foreign policy of "brave words and small deeds" and accused Republicans of only one campaign issue this year, "Elect me to help like."

On retail food prices, Burke said: "The day the farmers' milk prices took their last major drop, the housewife was asked to pay another penny a quart on the retail market. We've got to find out why."

Burke said the country has "suffered badly" on foreign policy in the past 18 months.

"After all the slogans and brave words came the debacle of Geneva, loss of French Indochina and failure of the French to ratify EDC. Perhaps now is the time for that 'agonizing reappraisal' of which Mr. Dulles spoke so glibly a few months ago."

Secretary of State Dulles, before the French rejected the European Army plan, said the United States might be forced to an "agonizing reappraisal" of its aid to Europe if the French rejected EDC.

State Tightening Property Tax Law

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Board of Tax Appeals issued an order today designed to assure that all property owners will be given notice when the value of their real estate changes.

The order said the law is clear on when notices shall be given and that "it must be followed by the board of revision and by the county auditor." The order affects all real estate assessed or reassessed for the 1954 tax year.

Under the law, if the valuation of a class of property or an individual parcel is changed, the county auditor must notify the owner by mail or in person at least 30 days before tax bills are sent out. If the auditor reappraises all real estate in the county, he has to advertise completion of the reappraisal in a newspaper of general circulation before tax bills go out.

1500 Persons Die In Japan Typhoon

TOKYO (AP)—An estimated 1,500 persons perished in a howling typhoon which struck northern Japan last night, including nearly 1,000 who died when a huge sea-going ferryboat capsized.

The bodies of 17 Americans have been recovered so far and perhaps 50 more are missing.

Authorities said 500 bodies have been found and estimated that 500 will be recovered from the capsized ferry.

The search for survivors has ended and rescue squads are lining up bodies of the dead on rough straw mats in an old seaman's center.

The great storm, generating winds up to 110 miles an hour, apparently had whirled harmlessly into the Japan Sea when suddenly it curled back and struck the northern island of Hokkaido almost without warning.

Attorney Held In Slaying Of Daughter, 6

TOWSON, Md. (AP)—Attorney James T. Roberts, accused of killing his 6-year-old daughter and leaving her body on a lonely Miami beach, gets an extradition hearing today.

The 43-year-old Baltimore man told State's Atty. John E. Raine Jr. when he gave himself up shortly after midnight that he was willing to return to Florida.

Roberts, accompanied by his wife, law partner and minister, walked into police headquarters about four hours after prosecutor George A. Brantigam of Dade County, Fla., had ordered him arrested.

Deputy sheriffs of Dade County said they would leave for Florida with Roberts immediately after the hearing.

Roberts' 6-year-old daughter, Judith Ann, was stolen from the home of her grandparents in Miami July 7. Her body was found a few hours later in a thicket on Biscayne Bay. She had been beaten and strangled.

A grand jury returned a secret indictment in Miami last Friday. Its contents remained a secret until Brantigam made them public here last evening.

The two-count indictment accused Roberts, "John Doe and or Mary Roe" of premeditated murder and "an attempt to perpetrate an abominable and detestable crime against nature."

Brantigam said, "we know there was at least one other person in on this." He gave no details.

Political Pot Starts Boiling More Furiously

Kefauver Says 'Crusade' Stopped; Nixon's Claim Labeled 'Outright Lie'

By The Associated Press

The political pot continued to boil this week—perhaps a bit more furiously than before.

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) has told voters in Oregon, visited last week by President Eisenhower, that he believes "the great crusade of the Republicans has sputtered, backed up and stopped."

Taking the stump for Oregon Democrats in the Nov. 2 congressional election, Kefauver told a Klamath Falls audience, "if the day is to be saved, we've got to get back to the policies of Woodrow Wilson, Franklin D. Roosevelt and that great Republican senator, Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan."

Eisenhower visited Oregon last Thursday for the dedication of McNary Dam.

At the summer White House in Denver, an Eisenhower aide said yesterday the President's three-day swing through the far west drew "tremendously enthusiastic" responses from GOP leaders all over the country.

Murray Snyder, assistant press secretary, said Eisenhower was "quite happy about—most gratified."

SNYDER DECLARED that party leaders were "particularly happy" about Eisenhower's most forceful pronouncement of the campaign—a political talk at the Hollywood Bowl in Los Angeles Thursday.

Vice President Nixon will begin his second campaign tour this week, in the Northeast, and his office yesterday announced plans for a third swing, Oct. 1. Nixon's third tour will take him to Ohio, Kentucky, Iowa, Colorado, California and Texas.

A statement by Nixon in Huron, S. D., a week ago was termed "an outright lie" yesterday by Stephen A. Mitchell, Democratic national chairman.

Mitchell jumped on Nixon for saying the Eisenhower administration has "kicked the Communists out of government, not by the hundreds, but by the thousands."

Asked on a radio-TV interview whether he was accusing Nixon of "an outright lie," Mitchell replied:

"Yes; is that clear?"

Reports filed with the House of Representatives, it was disclosed over the weekend, show both the Republicans and the Democrats have been spending more than they took in this year.

Until Sept. 1, the reports showed, the Republicans took in $1,498,120 from all national sources and spent $1,614,895, while the Democratic National Committee reported contributions of $614,874 and expenditures of $711,091.

AFL To Demand Fund Safeguard

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The American Federation of Labor convention headed into its final session today with delegates expected to demand that AFL unions safeguard member welfare funds from fraud.

A strong statement readied for expected convention approval was reported to condemn as "traitors" any union officials who dip into the rich funds for their own use.

Mounting disclosures in congressional investigations of irregularities in union handling of the multi-million dollar funds have worried union leaders. They fear frauds may give all labor a black eye and lead to new legal restrictions against unions.

Senate Probers Pin 2 Counts On Wisconsin Solon

Contempt For Senators, Abuse Of Gen. Zwicker Condemned By Select Investigating Committee

WASHINGTON (AP)—A special Senate investigating committee recommended today that Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy "should be censured" by the Senate.

In a report prepared for the Senate, the six-member committee said McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican, had treated the Senate and one of its committees contemptuously. It said further that on another count, his abuse of Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, "the senator from Wisconsin, Mr. McCarthy, should be censured."

As for three other broad charges considered in nine days of hearings, the committee said it feels they "do not, under all the evidence, justify a resolution of censure." But the group nevertheless was sharply critical of McCarthy's conduct.

The Senate itself will decide whether to vote to censure. There was no immediate comment from McCarthy. A copy of the report was delivered to his office. But the senator's office staff said he had not seen the report, so far as they knew, and that he was not expected to come to his office today.

ABOUT AN HOUR after the report was made public, McCarthy's attorney, Ed Williams, announced that McCarthy would make a "vigorous and lengthy fight" on the Senate floor against the committee recommendations. Williams said "Of course, we think the report is wrong where it recommends censure."

Adoption of a resolution of censure.

Crazed Slayer Being Sought In 2 Deaths

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—While police sought a frenzied slayer, funeral services were scheduled today for 4-year-old Stephen Goldberg, who died with his pretty teen-age sister Saturday night in a savage knife assault.

Friends of slain Lynn Ann Smith, 14, were questioned by authorities yesterday on the theory she and the Goldberg youngster, son of a well-to-do wholesale meat dealer, might have been stabbed to death by someone who knew the young sister.

Medical examiner W. A. R. Chapin said there was no evidence that Miss Smith had been attacked sexually. A torn fingernail and a wrist bruise indicated the teen-ager had battled frantically with her assailant.

Both Miss Smith and young Goldberg were stabbed about 20 times in the back and cut about the chest, Chapin said, adding: "It sounds like a crazy man's work. Only a maniac would do a thing like this."

The bodies of the two victims were found by the slain youngster's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Goldberg, when they returned from a night out. Stephen's 6-year-old brother, Robert, slept unharmed in a rear bedroom.

Police, who ruled out robbery as a possible motive, said their one tangible clue is a girl's hat found on the Goldberg's front sidewalk. They questioned several girls trying to establish ownership.

Funeral services for Miss Smith, a ninth grade pupil who lived around the corner from the Goldbergs, will be held tomorrow.

Judaism To Pray For New Strength

NEW YORK (AP)—The last light of an old year flickers out at sunset tonight, and millions of Jews gather to pray for greater spiritual strength in a troubled world.

It is the eve of Rosh Hashana, the "beginning of the year" of 5715 as calculated by the ancient lunar calendar and the first of Judaism's annual high holy days. "Help us, God," the congregations will pray tonight, "to understand that injustice and hate will not forever afflict the sons of men; that righteousness and mercy will triumph in the end."

THE RESULT was Japan's greatest maritime disaster.

Giant waves in Tsugaru Straits sank five big ferries, four of which carried no passengers, and hundreds of small craft.

A fire virtually wiped out Iwanai, a city of 23,000 on Hokkaido's west coast, and police reported disastrous landslides and floods throughout Hokkaido.

Communications and power lines were wrecked. Rail lines and highways were blocked.

The most terrible disaster occurred in Hakodate harbor, where the big ocean ferry Toya Maru, carrying 1,252 passengers and crewmen, smashed into rocks and turned turtle.

Forty-three railroad cars were hurled about inside the hull.

Eyewitnesses said the sickle-shaped harbor and its mile-long coast resembled a great naval disaster scene of the Pacific war. Wrecks of five ships and literally hundreds of small craft littered the beach.

The sand was dotted with bodies, many wearing life jackets which had failed to save their lives in the raging surf.

Smashed lifeboats, shattered timbers, oil and all the flotsam and jetsam of a sea disaster covered the beach.

In the town of Iwanai, 90 miles north of Hakodate, 32 persons died in a fire which destroyed 3,000 of the town's 4,500 houses in a few minutes. Forty-four persons were injured and others are missing, authorities said.

HAKODATE WAS without light or power. Emergency generators were put into operation to floodlight the disaster scene inside the breakwater, where the oily keel of the Toya Maru was visible above the still-churning water.

Japan's maritime safety force reported one other ocean freighter sunk, five grounded and one damaged in the storm. More than 1,100 small craft, mostly fishing boats, were lost, beached or damaged.

Twenty-seven patrol boats, six landing vessels, three mine sweepers—all Japanese—combed Hakodate bay for bodies and possible survivors. They were assisted by U. S. air and naval units.

The U. S. Far East Command announced that 57 American military personnel were aboard the Toya Maru and that one was known to have survived.

Two other Americans listed as missing and presumably drowned were Thomas M. West, an agent for a domestic firm, and Dean Leeper, 32, of Ohio, student secretary for the Japan YMCA.

Asked on a radio-TV interview whether he was accusing Nixon of "an outright lie," Mitchell replied: "Yes; is that clear?"

Reports filed with the House of Representatives, it was disclosed over the weekend, show both the Republicans and the Democrats have been spending more than they took in this year.

Until Sept. 1, the reports showed, the Republicans took in $1,498,120 from all national sources and spent $1,614,895, while the Democratic National Committee reported contributions of $614,874 and expenditures of $711,091.

AFL To Demand Fund Safeguard

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The American Federation of Labor convention headed into its final session today with delegates expected to demand that AFL unions safeguard member welfare funds from fraud.

A strong statement readied for expected convention approval was reported to condemn as "traitors" any union officials who dip into the rich funds for their own use.

Mounting disclosures in congressional investigations of irregularities in union handling of the multi-million dollar funds have worried union leaders. They fear frauds may give all labor a black eye and lead to new legal restrictions against unions.

Senate Probers Pin 2 Counts On Wisconsin Solon

Contempt For Senators, Abuse Of Gen. Zwicker Condemned By Select Investigating Committee

WASHINGTON (AP)—A special Senate investigating committee recommended today that Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy "should be censured" by the Senate.

In a report prepared for the Senate, the six-member committee said McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican, had treated the Senate and one of its committees contemptuously. It said further that on another count, his abuse of Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, "the senator from Wisconsin, Mr. McCarthy, should be censured."

As for three other broad charges considered in nine days of hearings, the committee said it feels they "do not, under all the evidence, justify a resolution of censure." But the group nevertheless was sharply critical of McCarthy's conduct.

The Senate itself will decide whether to vote to censure. There was no immediate comment from McCarthy. A copy of the report was delivered to his office. But the senator's office staff said he had not seen the report, so far as they knew, and that he was not expected to come to his office today.

ABOUT AN hour after the report was made public, McCarthy's attorney, Ed Williams, announced that McCarthy would make a "vigorous and lengthy fight" on the Senate floor against the committee recommendations. Williams said "Of course, we think the report is wrong where it recommends censure."

Crazed Slayer Being Sought In 2 Deaths

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—While police sought a frenzied slayer, funeral services were scheduled today for 4-year-old Stephen Goldberg, who died with his pretty teen-age sister Saturday night in a savage knife assault.

Friends of slain Lynn Ann Smith, 14, were questioned by authorities yesterday on the theory she and the Goldberg youngster, son of a well-to-do wholesale meat dealer, might have been stabbed to death by someone who knew the young sister.

Medical examiner W. A. R. Chapin said there was no evidence that Miss Smith had been attacked sexually. A torn fingernail and a wrist bruise indicated the teen-ager battled frantically with her assailant.

Both Miss Smith and young Goldberg were stabbed about 20 times in the back and cut about the chest, Chapin said, adding: "It sounds like a crazy man's work. Only a maniac would do a thing like this."

The bodies of the two victims were found by the slain youngster's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Goldberg, when they returned from a night out. Stephen's 6-year-old brother, Robert, slept unharmed in a rear bedroom.

Police, who ruled out robbery as a possible motive, said their one tangible clue is a girl's hat found on the Goldberg's front sidewalk. They questioned several girls trying to establish ownership.

Funeral services for Miss Smith, a ninth grade pupil who lived around the corner from the Goldbergs, will be held tomorrow.

Judaism To Pray For New Strength

NEW YORK (AP)—The last light of an old year flickers out at sunset tonight, and millions of Jews gather to pray for greater spiritual strength in a troubled world.

It is the eve of Rosh Hashana, the "beginning of the year" of 5715 as calculated by the ancient lunar calendar and the first of Judaism's annual high holy days. "Help us, God," the congregations will pray tonight, "to understand that justice and hate will not forever afflict the sons of men; that righteousness and mercy will triumph in the end."

sure would amount simply to a public rebuke of McCarthy and would not, of itself, remove any of his senatorial privileges.

The special committee's report ran to 68 printed pages, a total of around 40,000 words. Much of the text was devoted to a summary of the evidence.

In a concluding summary of recommendations, the committee said:

"For the reasons and on the facts found in this report, the select committee recommends:

"1. That on the charges in the category of 'incidents of contempt of the Senate or a senatorial committee,' the senator from Wisconsin, Mr. McCarthy, should be censured.

"2. That the charges in the category of 'incidents of encouragement of United States employees to violate the law and their oaths of office or executive orders,' do not, under all the evidence, justify a resolution of censure.

"3. That the charges in the category of 'incidents involving receipt or use of confidential or classified or other confidential information from executive files,' do not, under all the evidence, justify a resolution of censure.

"4. THAT THE charges in the category of 'incidents involving abuse of colleagues in the Senate,' except as to those dealt with in the first category, do not, under all the evidence, justify a resolution of censure.

"5. That on the charges in the category of 'incidents relating to Ralph W. Zwicker, a general officer of the Army of the United States,' the senator from Wisconsin, Mr. McCarthy, should be censured."

Further, the committee recommended that the Senate change its rules and ban one-man committee hearings except when the full committee, by majority vote, has directly authorized a single member to hold a hearing.

The group proposed also a rule forbidding disclosure of testimony taken in a closed session unless authorized by a majority vote of the committee.

McCarthy's abuse of Gen. Zwicker was in a closed, one-man hearing in New York last February. At the time, Zwicker was commander of Camp Kilmer, N. J. McCarthy called Zwicker before him as a witness in connection with an inquiry into the honorable discharge of an Army dentist who McCarthy described as a "Fifth Amendment Communist."

The resolution of censure against McCarthy was introduced by Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.). Specific charges were filed by Flanders and Sens. Fulbright (D-Ark) and Morse (Ind-Ore).

Altogether, 40-odd charges, some of them overlapping, were lodged.

THE SPECIAL committee appointed to consider them was made up of three Republicans and three Democrats. Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) was named chairman and Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.), vice chairman. Other members were Sens. Case of South Dakota and Carlson of Kansas, Republicans, and Sen. Stennis of Mississippi and (Continued on Page Two)

City's 1st Case On Civil Rights Tried In Court

Possibly the first civil rights case in Circleville history got under way Monday morning in the Common Pleas Court of Judge William D. Radcliff.

Kenneth Smith is suing Mrs. Nellie Palm, who was owner of an E. Main St. restaurant at the time Smith alleges he was refused service.

The incident reportedly took place April 2, 1953, at approximately 5:30 a. m. Smith accuses Don Jenkins, a waiter at the time, of refusing to serve him.

Jenkins claims that Smith ordered items which the restaurant did not handle and that Smith caused a disturbance.

KENNETH ROBBINS, attorney for Mrs. Palm, indicated that part of his defense will be based upon the fact that the incident took place between Jenkins and Smith. He contends Mrs. Palm had no part in the matter whatsoever.

A jury of nine men and three women was sworn in to hear the case. Smith is a mechanical engineer at North American Aviation in Columbus, Jenkins, a nephew of Mrs. Palm, is now owner of the restaurant.

Ervin of North Carolina, Democrats.

The committee reduced the numerous charges to five general categories which it regarded as representative of the accusations.

The committee found McCarthy guilty as charged in Category One, that he was contemptuous of the Senate and of the privileges and elections subcommittee which in 1952 studied his financial operations.

The committee's conclusion of the initial category was blunt:

"It is, therefore, the conclusion of the select committee that the conduct of the junior senator from Wisconsin toward the subcommittee on privileges and elections, towards its members, including the statement concerning Senator Hendrickson acting as a member of the subcommittee, and toward the Senate, was contemptuous and denunciatory, without reason or justification, and was obstructive to legislative processes.

"For this conduct, it is our recommendation that he be censured by the Senate."

THE COMMITTEE devoted 14 pages of its report to a detailed discussion of the Zwicker incident and ended this section with these words:

"The select committee concludes that the conduct of Sen. McCarthy toward Gen. Zwicker was reprehensible and that for this conduct he should be censured."

The report said "in the opinion of this select committee, the conduct of Sen. McCarthy toward Gen. Zwicker was not proper. We do not think that this conduct would have been proper in the case of any witness, whether a general or a private citizen, testifying in a similar situation."

The committee said McCarthy knew when he called Zwicker before his subcommittee last February that the general had been ordered to give an honorable discharge to Maj. Irving Peress.

The committee added that McCarthy also knew that Zwicker had been advised that a court martial of Peress would not be successful.

The committee denounced as "improper" McCarthy's stand in the dispute over his appeal to government employees to hand him information, regardless of whether it was classified as secret, and accused him of "a high degree of irresponsibility" in handling one such document. The report said:

"The select committee feels compelled to conclude that the conduct of Sen. McCarthy in inviting federal employees to supply him with information, without expressly excluding therefrom classified documents, tends to create a disruption of the orderly and constitutional functioning of the executive and legislative branches of the government, which tends to bring both into disrepute.

"Such conduct cannot be condoned and is deemed improper."

THE COMMITTEE said, however, it was not recommending censure because it preferred "to give Sen. McCarthy the benefit of whatever doubts and uncertainties may have confused the issue in the past" and because McCarthy is chairman of the Senate Investigations Subcommittee.

But the report recommended that Senate leaders seek some means for reform in Senate investigating procedures.

On the broad change involving abuses of other senators, the committee said this did not of itself justify a recommendation of censure. However, the specific count involving Senator Hendrickson was made a part of the general finding that McCarthy was in contempt of the Senate and should be censured.

The Hendrickson count grew out of McCarthy's description of Hendrickson as "a living miracle without brains or guts." This comment was made in January, 1953, after Hendrickson had signed the report of the Senate Privileges and Elections Subcommittee which investigated McCarthy's financial affairs under a resolution of former Senator Benton (D-Conn.).

Other incidents of alleged abuse cited in the charges were McCarthy's description of Senator Flanders as "senile" and McCarthy's subsequent comment as to Flanders: "I think they should get a man with a net and take him to a good quiet place."

The report said of this:

"THE REMARKS of Senator Mc-

Carthy, was admitted Sunday in Hollywood Presbyterian hospital, 1322 N. Vermont Ave., Los Angeles 26, Calif., as a surgical patient.

Fred Gordon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Gordon of 112 Northridge Road, has enrolled as a Freshman at Ohio State University, where he is pledged to Tau Epsilon Phi fraternity.

Sgt. 1-c Fred L. Riffle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Riffle of Circleville Route 4, left Monday for Camp Carson, Col. following a twenty-one day leave with his parents. His address is: 52-235-298, Co. A, 61st Inf Regt., 8th Div., Camp Carson, Col.

Carthy concerning Senator Flanders were highly improper.

"The committee finds, however, that they were induced by Senator Flanders' conduct in respect to Senator McCarthy in the Senate caucus room, and in delivering provocative speeches concerning Senator McCarthy.

"For these reasons, the committee concludes the remarks with reference to Senator Flanders do not constitute a basis for censure."

'Manhole' Fire, Grass Ablaze Reported Here

Two fire calls, neither involving appreciable damage, were answered over the weekend by the Circleville Fire Department.

A reported "manhole fire" Saturday night turned out to be burning gasoline. The fuel, trickling down from a filling station to the street, had been ignited.

Apparently, an attendant was filling a car tank when the gas spilled over and ran down the nearby street and toward the manhole. Someone evidently threw a match and ignited the gas, Chief Palmer Wise said.

The blaze was quickly extinguished with negligible loss.

On Sunday, about 11:35 a. m., a grass fire was extinguished at the railroad tracks between Mound and Main Sts.

Free World Key Ministers Eye German Armament Idea

LONDON (AP) — The key foreign ministers of the free world gathered here today for a conference on German rearmament that may decide whether Western Europe can stand unified in the face of Communist danger.

The West European peoples looked to the opening of the nine-power parity tomorrow with a grim conviction that their security was in the balance.

London's liberal News Chronicle possibly set the tone when it said success of the conference was a "matter of life or death."

U. S. Secretary of State Dulles flew into London last night and urged the West to move quickly in bringing West Germany into the Atlantic alliance.

"If we don't move rapidly, things could fall apart," Dulles said, adding, "we come here hopeful of good results because it is imperative there should be good results."

FRENCH PREMIER Pierre Mendes-France flew in from Paris soon after Dulles. "I am quite sure we will do very good and useful work at the conference," he said.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer was due today.

Dulles conferred for three hours with British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden over dinner at the

Milk Plentiful For Use In Ohio Schools

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—All schools in Ohio will be eligible to participate in a special school milk program authorized by Congress even if they do not take part in the school lunch program, it was reported today.

Provisions of the new program were discussed during a session at the state office building. Attending were representatives of the Ohio Department of Education, dairy industry officials and farm organizations.

Wade D. Bash, supervisor of the public school lunch program in the department of education, said the program is in addition to the existing lunch facilities. Ohio has been allotted $1,732,000 for the program.

Bash said the program has a two-fold purpose: (1) To safeguard health and welfare of children by making them more physically and mentally receptive to education and training, and (2) assist with the stabilization of agricultural economy.

Local school boards must submit an application and negotiate a contract with the department of education, and agree to operate the milk service on a non-profit basis. Reimbursement will be made for additional milk served above the average daily base consumption for last February and March. Rates of reimbursement will be established on the basis of previous level of milk consumption and present cost of milk, Bash said.

Maximum rates, said Bash, probably will be four cents for additional half pints above the base for the schools that served milk in connection with the lunch program last year, and three cents for half pints to schools which had no milk service.

The milk can be offered the children at any time during the school day with no restrictions on the number of half pints consumed by each child.

Bash said the idea of offering milk before school classes is especially important because surveys have shown many children go to school with little or no breakfast.

Driver Flees Accident Scene; Plates And Registration Differ

A youthful motorist whose identity remains unknown, escaped on foot after his car crashed into the rear of another Sunday evening.

The accident occurred at 8 p. m. on Route 23 immediately north of the city limits. Four passengers in the first car were shaken up but did not require medical treatment.

According to a report by Deputy Sheriff Walter Richards, a car driven by Robert Caudill, 61, of Sciotoville was traveling south on Route 23 when it was struck from the rear.

When Deputy Richards arrived in answer to Caudill's call, the driver of the second car had disappeared. Carroll R. Sheets, a passenger in the second car, said the driver told him he was going into a nearby restaurant to make a call.

SHEETS DECLARED that he had been hitchhiking when the unknown driver picked him up. Sheets said the driver never revealed his name to him.

However, Deputy Richards did spot the driver later. The deputy explained he was patrolling the highway when he saw the suspect trying to hitch a ride near Bell Island, north on Route 23.

Richards said that when he started to turn around, the suspect fled into nearby fields. A search of the area was made but darkness aided the man in making good his escape.

Papers in the car indicate the owners to be a Battle Creek, Mich. couple. However, the car bore Kentucky license plates but had no registration papers for those plates.

Richards indicated the car may be stolen and that unless further investigation proved otherwise he would report it to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

A DESCRIPTION of the escaped driver is as follows, according to the deputy:

Age, 19; height, about 5 feet 10 inches; slight build; light colored hair; wearing long sleeve maroon shirt with no jacket or hat, color of trousers not determined.

Let's Explore Ohio

Of the three main tribes of the prehistoric Mound Builders who once populated large areas in this State, those known as the Hopewell Indians were outstanding for their artistic ability and their impressive geometric earthworks. One of the best examples of their work is found in the Octagon State Memorial park at Newark. Considerable portions of the ancient earthworks in this area were obliterated in the development of the city of Newark. But, shown above, is a dual geometric earthwork consisting of a large octagon and a circle connected by parallel earth walls. It is believed that these earthwork enclosures were used for social and ceremonial purposes. The Octagon State Memorial, maintained by the Ohio Historical Society, contains an area of 138 acres.

Ex-Con Says He Was Paid To Bomb Construction Gear

CLEVELAND (AP)—A former convict testified today before a congressional subcommittee on labor racketeering that he was paid to carry out bombings and to damage equipment of Cleveland construction firms.

Richard L. Finley, 40, said he received $100 for one bombing in 1951 and in this instance was acting under the direction of Joseph Triscaro, president of the Shaker Trucking Co., and Shaker Land & Gravel Co.

Finley, now confined to the Warrensville Workhouse as a parole violator and on a grand larceny charge, said Triscaro's wife gave him several checks.

The purpose behind the bombings was not immediately made clear. The name of the firm involved in the $100 bombing also was not disclosed.

Finley took the stand as the house subcommittee opened a four-day hearing.

The witness said he committed 12 or 15 bombings, smashed equipment four or five times, destroyed machinery with abrasives "three times. He was paid for all of the work, he said.

Five officials of Cleveland firms preceded Finley to the stand and said their firms had suffered damage. They were D. Ray Sullivan of the Sullivan Excavating Co.; Edward N. Painton, a building contractor; Sylvester Bender, a former partner in Bender Bros., an excavating firm; Edward J. Kassouf of the Kassouf Co. and Thomas H. Maloney of Maloney & Son.

Finley startled the courtroom when he said the persons who paid him for the bombings had him framed on a parole violation charge in an effort to prevent his appearance before the subcommittee.

Rep. George H. Bender (R-Ohio), chairman of the subcommittee, asked if they "wanted to get you out of circulation."

"Yes, they would like to have seen me in a graveyard," the witness replied.

Finley said he "paid off policemen" several times, but reported he could not remember the names of the officers.

"Police don't bother you in this town if you've got the money," he said on being asked if police had questioned him about the bombings.

City's First Case On Civil Rights Tried In Court

Possibly the first civil rights case in Circleville history got under way Monday morning in the Common Pleas Court of Judge William D. Radcliff.

Kenneth Smith is suing Mrs. Nellie Palm, who was owner of an E. Main St. restaurant at the time Smith alleges he was refused service.

The incident reportedly took place April 2, 1953, at approximately 5:30 a. m. Smith accuses Don Jenkins, a waiter at the time, of refusing to serve him.

Jenkins claims that Smith ordered items which the restaurant did not handle and that Smith caused a disturbance.

KENNETH ROBBINS, attorney for Mrs. Palm, indicated that part of his defense will be based upon the fact that the incident took place between Jenkins and Smith. He contends Mrs. Palm had no part in the matter whatsoever.

A jury of nine men and three women was sworn in to hear the case. Smith is a mechanical engineer at North American Aviation in Columbus. Jenkins, a nephew of Mrs. Palm, is now owner of the restaurant.

NOT THAT he gives a hoot, but ever since Charles Bright, 12, of Liberal, Kansas, found this young prairie owl in his mother's garden, he's had the bird on his mind. Wherever he goes, the owl insists on going along, perching on the boy's head as shown here.

Ervin of North Carolina, Democrats.

The committee reduced the numerous charges to five general categories which it regarded as representative of the accusations.

The committee found McCarthy guilty as charged in Category One, that he was contemptuous of the Senate and of the privileges and elections subcommittee which in 1952 studied his financial operations.

The committee's conclusion of the initial category was blunt:

"It is, therefore, the conclusion of the select committee that the conduct of the junior senator from Wisconsin toward the subcommittee on privileges and elections, towards its members, including the statement concerning Senator Hendrickson acting as a member of the subcommittee, and toward the Senate, was contemptuous and denunciatory, without reason or justification, and was obstructive to legislative processes.

"For this conduct, it is our recommendation that he be censured by the Senate."

THE COMMITTEE devoted 14 pages of its report to a detailed discussion of the Zwicker incident and ended this section with these words:

"The select committee concludes that the conduct of Sen. McCarthy toward Gen. Zwicker was reprehensible and that for this conduct he should be censured."

The report said "in the opinion of this select committee, the conduct of Sen. McCarthy toward Gen. Zwicker was not proper. We do not think that this conduct would have been proper in the case of any witness, whether a general or a private citizen, testifying in a similar situation."

The committee said McCarthy knew when he called Zwicker before his subcommittee last February that the general had been ordered to give an honorable discharge to Maj. Irving Peress.

The committee added that McCarthy also knew that Zwicker had been advised that a court martial of Peress would not be successful.

The committee denounced as "improper" McCarthy's stand in the dispute over his appeal to government employees to hand him information, regardless of whether it was classified as secret, and accused him of "a high degree of irresponsibility" in handling one such document. The report said:

"The select committee feels compelled to conclude that the conduct of Sen. McCarthy in inviting federal employees to supply him with information, without expressly excluding therefrom classified documents, tends to create a disruption of the orderly and constitutional functioning of the executive and legislative branches of the government, which tends to bring both into disrepute.

"Such conduct cannot be condoned and is deemed improper."

THE COMMITTEE said, however, it was not recommending censure because it preferred "to give Sen. McCarthy the benefit of whatever doubts and uncertainties may have confused the issue in the past" and because McCarthy is chairman of the Senate Investigations Subcommittee.

But the report recommended that Senate leaders seek some means for reform in Senate investigating procedures.

On the broad change involving abuses of other senators, the committee said this did not of itself justify a recommendation of censure. However, the specific count involving Senator Hendrickson was made a part of the general finding that McCarthy was in contempt of the Senate and should be censured.

The Hendrickson count grew out of McCarthy's description of Hendrickson as "a living miracle without brains or guts." This comment was made in January, 1953, after Hendrickson had signed the report of the Senate Privileges and Elections Subcommittee which investigated McCarthy's financial affairs under a resolution of former Senator Benton (D-Conn.).

Other incidents of alleged abuse cited in the charges were McCarthy's description of Senator Flanders as "senile" and McCarthy's subsequent comment as to Flanders: "I think they should get a man with a net and take him to a quiet place."

The report said of this:

"THE REMARKS of Senator Mc-

Carthy, was admitted Sunday in Hollywood Presbyterian hospital, 1322 N. Vermont Ave., Los Angeles 26, Calif., as a surgical patient.

'Manhole' Fire, Grass Ablaze Reported Here

Two fire calls, neither involving appreciable damage, were answered over the weekend by the Circleville Fire Department.

A reported "manhole fire" Saturday night turned out to be burning gasoline. The fuel, trickling down from a filling station to the street, had been ignited.

Apparently, an attendant was filling a car tank when the gas spilled over and ran down the nearby street and toward the manhole. Someone evidently threw a match and ignited the gas, Chief Talmer Wise said.

The blaze was quickly extinguished with negligible loss.

On Sunday, about 11:35 a. m., a grass fire was extinguished at the railroad tracks between Mound and Main Sts.

Free World Key Ministers
Eye German Armament Idea

LONDON (AP)—The key foreign ministers of the free world gathered here today for a conference on German rearmament that may decide whether Western Europe can stand unified in the face of Communist danger.

The West European peoples looked to the opening of the nine-power parity tomorrow with a grim conviction that their security was in the balance.

London's liberal News Chronicle possibly set the tone when it said success of the conference was a "matter of life or death."

U. S. Secretary of State Dulles flew into London last night and urged the West to move quickly in bringing West Germany into the Atlantic alliance.

"If we don't move rapidly, things could fall apart," Dulles said, adding, "we come here hopeful of good results because it is imperative there should be good results."

FRENCH PREMIER Pierre Mendes-France flew in from Paris Sunday after Dulles. "I am quite sure we will do very good and useful work at the conference," he said.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer was due today. Dulles conferred for three hours with British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden over dinner at the Almost seven years to the week since it was opened for business in Circleville, Sharff's Women's Apparel Shop moved to a new and enlarged W. Main St. location.

The shop is now located in the building which housed the old Metropolitan and Circle Theaters for many years. The area of the new store is double that of the previous store on N. Court St.

Grand opening for the new quarters was attended by an estimated 1,000 persons on the first day. Saturday night, 42 prizes were given away to celebrate the occasion.

The new store is rated the most modern women's shop in Circleville. Sharff's has added furs, belts and luggage to their line of top nationally advertised women's apparel.

Milk Plentiful For Use In Ohio Schools

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—All schools in Ohio will be eligible to participate in a special school milk program authorized by Congress even if they do not take part in the school lunch program, it was reported today.

Provisions of the new program were discussed during a session at the state office building. Attending were representatives of the Ohio Department of Education, dairy industry officials and farm organizations.

Wade D. Bash, supervisor of the public school lunch program in the department of education, said the program is in addition to the existing lunch facilities. Ohio has been allotted $1,732,000 for the program.

Bash said the program has a two-fold purpose: (1) To safeguard health and welfare of children by making them more physically and mentally receptive to education and training, and (2) assist with the stabilization of agricultural economy.

Local school boards must submit an application and negotiate a contract with the department of education, and agree to operate the milk service on a non-profit basis. Reimbursement will be made for additional milk served above the average daily base consumption for last February and March. Rates of reimbursement will be established on the basis of previous level of milk consumption and present cost of milk, Bash said.

Maximum rates, said Bash, probably will be four cents for additional half pints above the base for the schools that served milk in connection with the lunch program last year, and three cents for half pints to schools which had no milk service.

Bash said the idea of offering milk before school classes is especially important because surveys have shown many children go to school with little or no breakfast.

Driver Flees Accident Scene; Plates And Registration Differ

A youthful motorist whose identity remains unknown, escaped on foot after his car crashed into the rear of another Sunday evening.

The accident occurred at 8 p. m. on Route 23 immediately north of the city limits. Four passengers in the first car were shaken up but did not require medical treatment.

According to a report by Deputy Sheriff Walter Richards, a car driven by Robert Caudill, 61, of Sciotoville was traveling south on Route 23 when it was struck from the rear.

When Deputy Richards arrived in answer to Caudill's call, the driver of the second car had disappeared. Carroll R. Sheets, a passenger in the second car, said the driver told him he was going into a nearby restaurant to make a call.

SHEETS DECLARED that he had been hitchhiking when the unknown driver picked him up. Sheets said the driver never revealed his name to him.

However, Deputy Richards did spot the driver later. The deputy explained he was patrolling the highway when he saw the suspect trying to hitch a ride near Bell Sidling, north on Route 23.

Richards said that when he started to turn around, the suspect fled into nearby fields. A search of the area was made but darkness aided the man in making good his escape.

Papers in the car indicate the owners to be a Battle Creek, Mich. couple. However, the car bore Kentucky license plates but had no registration papers for those plates.

Richards indicated the car may be stolen and that unless further investigation proved otherwise he would report it to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

A DESCRIPTION of the escaped driver is as follows, according to the deputy:

Age, 19; height, about 5 feet 10 inches; slight build; light colored hair; wearing long sleeve maroon shirt with no jacket or hat, color of trousers not determined.

Those 'Stop' Signs Are Gone Again!

As quietly as they appeared, the extra "stop" signs at the corner of Washington and Ohio streets have disappeared again.

At least city police reported the signs were not at the intersection Monday morning. The signs had been placed to make Washington a "stop" street, and—added to two already on Ohio—turned the corner into a four-way stop crossing.

City Service Director Dewey Speakman said he placed the signs under instructions from City Safety Director Oscar Root. But city councilmen, led by Ray Cook, declared Root did not have the authority to approve the signs.

And the lawmakers voted down an ordinance which would have made them legal. Disappearance of the markers apparently ends the discussion. For the time being, that is.

Let's Explore Ohio

Of the three main tribes of the prehistoric Mound Builders who once populated large areas in this State, those known as the Hopewell Indians were outstanding for their artistic ability and their impressive geometric earthworks. One of the best examples of their work is found in the Octagon State Memorial park at Newark. Considerable portions of the ancient earthworks in this area were obliterated in the development of the city of Newark. But, shown above, is a dual geometric earthwork consisting of a large octagon and a circle connected by parallel earth walls. It is believed that these earthwork enclosures were used for social and ceremonial purposes. The Octagon State Memorial, maintained by the Ohio Historical Society, contains an area of 138 acres.

New Jersey Turnpike Director Sees Decline Of Motorcycle Cop

By HAL BOYLE

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (AP)—The motorcycle cop long regarded by motorists as a kill-joy, isn't yet as rare as the cigar store Indian.

But he is rapidly disappearing from America's great highways.

"We don't use motorcycles at all," said Brig. Gen. W. W. Wanemaker, executive director of the 118-mile New Jersey Turnpike. "They're too dangerous, and they couldn't do the job for us."

His force of 76 state cops all use patrol cars. The Jersey turnpike as a result is now the most heavily patrolled as well as the heaviest traveled road of its kind in the nation. It is now also one of the safest.

"This year we have reduced traffic fatalities to 2.42 per 100 million vehicle miles," said Gen. Wanemaker, "as compared to a rate of 6.6 for national public highways."

"The improved safety can be explained by two things—better policing and the fact the public is showing more sense. They have learned how to drive safely on turnpikes, and the novelty of using them as racetracks has worn off."

The modern highway cop would like to be regarded more as a Good Samaritan for motorists rather than as a guy who does nothing but ambush speeders. The figures bear them out.

"Last year we gave 15,339 summonses for speeding," said Lt. Joseph W. Mack, 48, of Haddonfield, N. J., a state policeman for 25 years. "But we helped 42,112 motorists who were in trouble. For example, we had to arrange 15,880 towings, aided 9,485 motorists with flat tires, 9,050 who had run out of gas, and put out 57 car or truck fires.

"Our maternity record is perfect. Our men have delivered two babies, and never lost either a child or a mother. That's a batting 1,000 per cent."

In his quarter century of police work Lt. Mack has gone from the horse to the motorcycle to the patrol car.

"I spent 10 years on motorcycles, and had about 100 spills in that time," he said. "With the patrol cars we can carry the equipment to do things that were impossible for a motorcycle cop. We're able to give more first aid to accident victims, and get them to hospitals quicker. We carry two kinds of fire extinguishers—one for gasoline fires, the other for tire or deep upholstery fires."

"Sometimes in truck collisions a driver is pinned in his burning cab. Each patrol car now has a heavy steel pry bar, and we can rip open the cab in a matter of seconds and get him out. In the old days we couldn't have helped in time—he'd have burned to death."

But now and then Lt. Mack, a tall, blue-eyed, powerfully built officer, likes to look back on his first two years in service, when he rode horseback through rural areas of the state.

"I guess I didn't care as much about that horse then as I do now," he said, wistfully. "Her name was Mamie. I wanted to get on the motorcycles because, when you finished, all you had to do was turn in the motorcycle and go eat."

"But with Mamie, I first had to see she was dry, rub her down with straw, spread her bedding, feed her, and saddle soap the leather equipment. And in the morning, before starting out, I had to curry her, feed and water her, and clean out her stall.

"I took care of her every need. She was like my baby. Later on I could have blindfolded myself and Mamie would have taken me to every stop on my regular patrol. Another thing about a horse—in winter they keep you warm on the bitterest day. They have built-in radiant heating."

"It was a wonderful life—the best. Later, when I was on the motorcycle and had learned to hate it, I found out how much Mamie had meant to me."

Gas Kills Four In Pennsy Home

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP)—A Scranton woman returned home yesterday from a wedding party to find her three small children and their elderly baby sitter dead.

Dr. Paul E. Kabasko, Lackawanna County coroner, ruled the deaths were caused by accidental asphyxiation.

Mrs. Ruth Gospoderek told police she returned home at 1:30 Sunday morning to find the dead bodies. Patricia Ann, 21 months, was in her crib; Mary Jane, 5, was in bed, and 4-year-old Kathleen Ann was snuggled against the baby sitter, John Bell, 65, on the divan. Mrs. Gospoderek said she found an oven jet partially opened. Her husband, Jack, died last April.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mrs. Pauline Lalor, believing it was her husband moving around her bedroom asked sleepily:

"What's the matter, dear?" "Nothing," was the reply. "Are you ill?" she asked. "No."

When she awakened again after daylight yesterday, she found her bureau had been ransacked and $54 cash taken. Her husband had remained peacefully asleep in an adjoining room.

New Jersey Turnpike Director Sees Decline Of Motorcycle Cop

By HAL BOYLE

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (AP)—The motorcycle cop long regarded by motorists as a kill-joy, isn't yet as rare as the cigar store Indian.

But he is rapidly disappearing from America's great highways.

"We don't use motorcycles at all," said Brig. Gen. W. W. Wanamaker, executive director of the 118-mile New Jersey Turnpike. "They're too dangerous, and they couldn't do the job for us."

His force of 76 state cops all use patrol cars. The Jersey turnpike as a result is now the most heavily patrolled road of its kind in the nation. It is now also one of the safest.

"This year we have reduced traffic fatalities to 2.42 per 100 million vehicle miles," said Gen. Wanamaker, "as compared to a rate of 6.6 for national public highways."

"The improved safety can be explained by two things—better policing and the fact the public is showing more sense. They have learned how to drive safely on turnpikes, and the novelty of using them as racetracks has worn off."

The modern highway cop would like to be regarded more as a Good Samaritan for motorists rather than as a guy who does nothing but ambush speeders. The figures bear them out.

"Last year we gave 15,339 summonses for speeding," said Lt. Joseph W. Mack, 48, of Haddonfield, N. J., a state policeman for 25 years. "But we helped 42,112 motorists who were in trouble. For example, we had to arrange 15,880 towings, aided 9,485 motorists with flat tires, 9,050 who had run out of gas, and put out 57 car or truck fires.

"Our maternity record is perfect. Our men have delivered two babies, and never lost either a child or a mother. That's a batting 1,000 per cent."

In his quarter century of police work Lt. Mack has gone from the horse to the motorcycle to the patrol car.

"I spent 10 years on motorcycles, and had about 100 spills in that time," he said. "With the patrol cars we can carry the equipment to do things that were impossible for a motorcycle cop."

"We're able to give more first aid to accident victims, and get them to hospitals quicker. We carry two kinds of fire extinguishers—one for gasoline fires, the other for tire or deep upholstery fires."

"Sometimes in truck collisions a driver is pinned in his burning cab. Each patrol car now has a heavy steel pry bar, and we can rip open the cab in a matter of seconds and get him out. In the old days we couldn't have helped in time—he'd have burned to death."

But now and then Lt. Mack, a tall, blue-eyed, powerfully built officer, likes to look back on his first two years in service, when he rode horseback through rural areas of the state.

"I guess I didn't care as much about that horse then as I do now," he said, wistfully. "Her name was Mamie. I wanted to get on the motorcycles because, when you finished, all you had to do was turn in the motorcycle and go eat."

"But with Mamie, I first had to see she was dry, rub her down with straw, spread her bedding, feed her, and saddle soap the leather equipment. And in the

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP)—A Scranton woman returned home yesterday from a wedding party to find her three small children and their elderly baby sitter dead.

Dr. Paul E. Kabasko, Lackawanna County coroner, ruled the deaths were caused by accidental asphyxiation.

Mrs. Ruth Gospoderek told police she returned home at 1:30 Sunday morning to find the dead bodies. Patricia Ann, 21 months, was in her crib; Mary Jane, 5, was in bed, and 4-year-old Kathleen Ann was snuggled against the baby sitter, John Bell, 65, on the divan. Mrs. Gospoderek said she found an oven jet partially opened. Her husband, Jack, died last April.

RADAR CAUTION

DETECTION OF speeders by radar, which is getting under way in many sections of the country, is being called into question on some points by the American Automobile Association. It holds the potentialities of benefit or harm, depending upon what use is made of it.

The device—not really radar—is a small black box known as an electrometric speed meter. The operation, based on micro-waves, is licensed by the Federal Communications Commission. More than 500 such sets have been licensed in 43 states, mainly by police departments.

One danger is that radar speed control warning signs are placed on highway stretches seldom if ever patrolled. If the public becomes convinced somebody is crying "Wolf," the effect will be the opposite of that intended. The AAA frowns on this "scare" technique.

Ralph Thomas, president of the AAA, hopes for good results in curbing unreasonable speeds, but thinks enforcement agencies should remain realistic in their attitude toward the mechanical speed trap. "Radar control," he says, "could become a bane if used for the entrapment and wholesale arrests of motorists for minor, technical violations. One would hesitate to contemplate the results if Virginia, for example, were to use radar to enforce the old law, still on the books, to slow down to five miles an hour at railroad crossings."

The promise of scientific apprehension of dangerous speeders will be corrupted into a highway nuisance if enforcement officials find the opportunity for new revenue irresistible.

DRIVING PERMITTED?

ANNOUNCEMENT out of Moscow that two Western diplomats have qualified for Soviet driving licenses is no dull-day news story.

Soviet driving tests are recognized as the toughest in the world—especially when taken by foreigners who might stray off the beaten track.

The mechanical examination, which is no longer required, invariably flunked out the applicants. Would-be operators were expected to answer questions on the construction of the engine of one of four types of Soviet cars and to give a practical demonstration of this knowledge. The fact that nearly all westerners who might apply use to American or British makes didn't faze the reds.

They surely planned it that way. But now for some ulterior reason the Soviets have seen fit to ease up. First westerners to win licenses are a top official each in the British and American embassies. They can expect to be followed, wherever they go.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Among the bills passed by Congress in the last days of its recent session was one to celebrate the 200th anniversary of the birth of Alexander Hamilton, which is to occur on January 11, 1957. A huge commission of 19 is to be appointed, with the President, the Vice President and the Speaker of the House as ex-officio members.

Apparently this is to be a notable event as the Commission is empowered to ask other nations to participate. Alexander Hamilton was born in the West Indies of uncertain parentage, about whom there are various reports. Some say one of his parents was Danish and there is even a tradition that one was of Jewish origin.

Whatever it was, Alexander Hamilton found his way to New York where he became an active participant in the affairs of this country, even as a student at Kings College which is now Columbia University. Being of an aristocratic frame of mind, he did not join the Sons of Liberty, which was composed mostly of laborers, including many Irish immigrants. Nor did he ever join Tammany Hall, which was Aaron Burr's enterprise to control New York by means of what became the Democratic Party. Instead, Hamilton became a Federalist which was the party of the well-to-do and well-behaved.

He was a lawyer, married advantageously to the rich and established Schuyler family. Associated with George Washington as an aide, secretary and ghost writer, he went through the Revolutionary War, gaining power and position.

His contributions to American affairs were enormous, particularly his articles in "The Federalist" which were a defense of the American Constitution before its acceptance by the newly constituted sovereign states.

Had "The Federalist" not been written by Alexander Hamilton, John Jay and James Madison, it is doubtful whether the Constitution might have been ratified by some of the states, particularly New York which did not like many of its features. His knowledge of government was extensive and invaluable.

Washington made Hamilton his Secretary of the Treasury, in which office he served during Washington's two terms, laying down the fiscal policy and methods of the Government of the United States, which held until 1913 when the 16th Amendment was passed permitting the collection of an income tax which is the source of many of our woes.

His "Report on Manufactures," which laid the basis for the American protective tariff, has been the means for freeing the United States economically from Europe, as Washington's "Farewell Address" provided the philosophy for keeping the United States free from the affairs of Europe. In this "Report on Manufactures," Alexander Hamilton said:

"... the United States, are, to a certain extent, in the situation of a country precluded from foreign commerce. They can, abroad the manufactured supplies of which they are in want; but they experience numerous and very injurious impediments to the mission and vent of their own commodities. Nor is this the case in reference to a single foreign nation only. The regulations of several countries, with which we have the most extensive intercourse, throw serious obstructions in the way of the principal staples of the United States."

HOLLOW SILVER

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN
RAIN was falling steadily when Marsh and Penn went out to the car. They drove as far as the country store in silence, except for the dismal clunking of the windshield wipers. Then Marsh Nichols cleared his throat.

"My mother," he remarked, "is an eager little person. She'd like to arrange life so that everybody will be happy."

Penn said carefully: "She's a very stimulating person. Thank you for letting me see her again."

It wasn't true, of course. Mrs. Nichols was full of fancies and anxious to exorcise the dark angels her son harbored toward the Storeys. Marsh Nichols wasn't falling in love with her. He was as remote as ever, as grimly on guard. She told herself that she did not want Marsh Nichols to fall in love with her. She told herself this over and over, very sternly. By the time they reached the dark, still-deserted Storey house she had made herself believe it.

Josh Henning shifted his black cigar to the other corner of his mouth, and Claudia Mapes continued the impulse to flap her handkerchief in front of her face and snort, as the air-conditioning unit sucked up the noxious smoke too slowly. Elihu, who hated cigars, looked unhappy, too. It troubled Claudia to see how much thinner Elihu looked, his face drawn and with its old rudeness faded.

Elihu kept tapping his fingers on the desk. Claudia shifted in her chair, arranged some papers in a drawer, kept her eyes turned away so that she could not be accused of watching the faces of the two men. Her mind kept racing backward to the prairie that was home, back to that town, that old school. Josh Henning and Elihu Storey had been the "big boys" then, and Josh had been rough and crude, with hard, ugly hands and a raucous voice.

He said: "Claudia, why don't you get out of here? Elihu and I have got things to thresh out."

Elihu interposed. "Claudia knows all about my business. You stay where you are, Claudia."

"But don't make any notes. This is all confidential," Josh warned.

"Certainly," snapped Claudia stiffly, glad that her desk was backed into a corner. The lower drawer was wide and deep. She opened it, made a show of bringing out a box of tissues, left the drawer open halfway. The click of the little switch in the drawer that she touched was covered by the squeak of her rolling chair as she pushed it back. The hum of the little motor she had turned on was inaudible above the whirr of

DIET AND HEALTH

School Child's Health

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

EVERY child should have a complete physical examination early in the school year.

Now that school bells are ringing all over the land and youngsters are back at their desks, be sure that your child is gone over by the family doctor.

Promotes Academic Success

Although children may seem perfectly well, a routine check-up may disclose impending diseases or defects that can and should be corrected. This type of preventive medicine not only spares the child from unnecessary suffering throughout his life, but it may contribute vastly to his success in learning.

A child with an unnoticed hearing or vision defect may do poorly at his studies through no fault of his own. Correction of the problem means that the child can operate on a normal level.

A Medical Shocker

A recent study in a large city revealed some shocking facts. Seventy-five percent of the children examined had cavities or caries in their teeth, and almost seven percent had defects in the biting mechanism. Many youngsters had bone disorders, were underweight or overweight, or had some visual disturbance. Many had diseased tonsils. Others had hearing and breathing defects, while a small group had heart disease.

Every parent has a responsibility to see that his own boy or girl of school age has this thorough physical check-up now. Good health is certainly among life's greatest blessings and medical care can help the child attain it. This examination should include the necessary injections to prevent certain contagious diseases; it should also include tetanus toxoid injections for the prevention of lockjaw following injury.

WASHINGTON — Republicans' concern over prospective loss of Congress in November is not based on ballot box reversals in Maine and other sections of the country, including heavy Democratic turnouts in primaries so far held. It is recognized that these upsets could be due to local conditions, personalities and issues, as some cautious Democrats concede.

Their real worry, based on a headquarters canvass of the results, derives from their realization that a definite pattern of anti-Republican revulsion shows up in all these tests. The GOP, they fear, has lost taste with almost every class or group of voters—urban and rural, farmers and factory workers, conservatives and liberals, the eggheads and independents, and especially among the women.

COOL TO IKE—President Eisenhower still holds the respect and admiration of the people, as the opponents' failure to attack him personally demonstrates. But he is not a beloved figure, and he does not arouse hero worship or mass enthusiasm. In general, he has disappointed his 1952 supporters.

Moreover, the policies which he has espoused, or which he has been forced to follow by unsympathetic Republicans on Capitol Hill, do not seem to have won the general approval of the electorate. He is blamed for the company he keeps by many who voted for him, despite their distrust of the party which nominated him.

As of today, and it is doubtful if Ike's calls for the election of Republicans can change the situation; impartial observers believe that Democratic capture of House and Senate is almost a certainty.

When Republican analysts talk frankly and privately, they attribute their sudden slump in popular esteem to Eisenhower's policies and to his trust in an insulated circle of advisers at the White House, especially the Eastern clique headed by Sherman Adams of New Hampshire.

BLAME ADAMS—In the opinion of the headquarters and clubhouse crowd, the Adams school of political thought has persuaded the President to alienate almost every large bloc of voters in the land. They have been too stiffnecked and uncompromising in their relations with Congress, the party and the people.

Almost every test suggests that their farm program has cost the Republicans the support of normally Republican voters through the wheat and cattle belts, where it was expected that the GOP would show gains in the November balloting. Several Democratic senators marked for defeat, notably Paul H. Douglas of Illinois and Guy Gillette of Iowa, are now given a good chance to return.

The Labor element was never so fiercely anti-Republican as it is today. It resents not only the failure to soften the Taft-Hartley Act, but the appointment of reputedly "employer men" to various agencies dealing with the workingman's problems. Persistent high prices, unemployment in numerous industrial centers and Ike's refusal to woo their leaders aggravate their antagonism.

ANTI-IKE—Like himself is responsible for the disaffection of two extremely influential voting groups, the federal employees and the veterans. Together or separately, each has sufficient strength in various states to determine the outcome. They are anti-Ike, according to all reports.

Uncle Sam's workers have a normal Democratic majority, anyway, since most incumbents were appointed during the Roosevelt-Truman regime. But Ike's veto of pay raises has handed them to the opposition. Similarly, it was a barren year for the veterans, insofar as new and beneficial legislation was concerned. Eisenhower opposed these extra expenditures.

The Taft conservatives are angry or indifferent, figuring that Ike has accepted and advanced too many New Dealish doctrines. Adams' failure to recognize patronage claims will not inspire the backroom boys to get out the vote. They don't regard Ike and his crowd as "regular Republicans!"

RADAR CAUTION

DETECTION OF speeders by radar, which is getting under way in many sections of the country, is being called into question on some points by the American Automobile Association. It holds the potentialities of benefit or harm, depending upon what use is made of it.

The device—not really radar—is a small black box known as an electromagnetic speed meter. The operation, based on micro-waves, is licensed by the Federal Communications Commission. More than 500 such sets have been licensed in 43 states, mainly by police departments.

One danger is that radar speed control warning signs are placed on highway stretches seldom if ever patrolled. If the public becomes convinced somebody is crying "Wolf," the effect will be the opposite of that intended. The AAA frowns on this "scare" technique.

Ralph Thomas, president of the AAA, hopes for good results in curbing unreasonable speeds, but thinks enforcement agencies should remain realistic in their attitude toward the mechanical speed trap. "Radar control," he says, "could become a bane if used for the entrapment and wholesale arrests of motorists for minor, technical violations. One would hesitate to contemplate the results if Virginia, for example, were to use radar to enforce the old law, still on the books, to slow down to five miles an hour at railroad crossings."

The promise of scientific apprehension of dangerous speeders will be corrupted into a highway nuisance if enforcement officials find the opportunity for new revenue irresistible.

DRIVING PERMITTED?

ANNOUNCEMENT out of Moscow that two Western diplomats have qualified for Soviet driving licenses is no dull-day news story.

Soviet driving tests are recognized as the toughest in the world—especially when taken by foreigners who might stray off the beaten track.

The mechanical examination, which is no longer required, invariably flunked out the applicants. Would-be operators were expected to answer questions on the construction of the engine of one of four types of Soviet cars and to give a practical demonstration of this knowledge. The fact that nearly all westerners who might apply use to American or British makes didn't faze the reds.

They surely planned it that way. But now for some ulterior reason the Soviets have seen fit to ease up. First westerners to win licenses are a top official each in the British and American embassies. They can expect to be followed, wherever they go.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Among the bills passed by Congress in the last days of its recent session was one to celebrate the 200th anniversary of the birth of Alexander Hamilton, which is to occur on January 11, 1957. A huge commission of 19 is to be appointed, with the President, the Vice President and the Speaker of the House as ex-officio members.

Apparently this is to be a notable event as the Commission is empowered to ask other nations to participate. Alexander Hamilton was born in the West Indies of uncertain parentage, about whom there are various reports. Some say one of his parents was Danish and there is even a tradition that one was of Jewish origin.

Whatever it was, Alexander Hamilton found his way to New York where he became an active participant in the affairs of this country, even as a student at Kings College which is now Columbia University. Being of an aristocratic frame of mind, he did not join the Sons of Liberty, which was composed mostly of laborers, including many Irish immigrants. Nor did he ever join Tammany Hall, which was Aaron Burr's enterprise to control New York by means of what became the Democratic Party. Instead, Hamilton became a Federalist which was the party of the well-to-do and well-behaved.

He was a lawyer, married advantageously to the rich and established Schuyler family. Associated with George Washington as an aide, secretary and ghost writer, he went through the Revolutionary War, gaining power and position.

His contributions to American affairs were enormous, particularly his articles in "The Federalist" which were a defense of the American Constitution before its acceptance by the newly constituted sovereign states.

Had "The Federalist" not been written by Alexander Hamilton, John Jay and James Madison, it is doubtful whether the Constitution might have been ratified by some of the states, particularly New York which did not like many of its features. His knowledge of government was extensive and invaluable.

Washington made Hamilton his Secretary of the Treasury, in which office he served during Washington's two terms, laying down the fiscal policy and methods of the Government of the United States, which held until 1913 when the 16th Amendment was passed permitting the collection of an income tax which is the source of many of our woes.

His "Report on Manufactures," which laid the basis for the American protective tariff, has been the means for freeing the United States economically from Europe, as Washington's "Farewell Address" provided the philosophy for keeping the United States free from the affairs of Europe. In this "Report on Manufactures," Alexander Hamilton said:

"... the United States, are, to a certain extent, in the situation of a country precluded from foreign commerce. They can, abroad the manufactured supplies of which they are in want; but they experience numerous and very injurious impediments to the mission and vent of their own commodities. Nor is this the case in reference to a single foreign nation only. The regulations of several countries, with which we have the most extensive intercourse, throw serious obstructions in the way of the principal staples of the United States."

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

RAIN was falling steadily when Marsh and Penn went out to the car. They drove as far as the country store in silence, except for the dismal clunking of the windshield wipers. Then Marsh Nichols cleared his throat.

"My mother," he remarked, "is an eager little person. She'd like to arrange a life so that everybody will be happy."

Penn said carefully: "She's a very stimulating person. Thank you for letting me see her again."

It wasn't true, of course. Mrs. Nichols was full of fancies and anxious to exorcise the dark angels her son harbored toward the Storeys. Marsh Nichols wasn't falling in love with her. He was as remote as ever, as grimly on guard. She told herself that she did not want Marsh Nichols to fall in love with her. She told herself this over and over, very sternly. By the time they reached the dark, still-deserted Storey house she had made herself believe it.

Josh Henning shifted his black cigar to the other corner of his mouth, and Claudia Mapes controlled the impulse to flap her handkerchief in front of her face and snort, as the air-conditioning unit sucked up the noxious smoke too slowly. Elihu, who hated cigars, looked unhappy, too. It troubled Claudia to see how much thinner Elihu looked, his face drawn and with its old ruddiness faded.

Elihu kept tapping his fingers on the desk. Claudia shifted in her chair, arranged some papers in a drawer, kept her eyes turned away so that she could not be accused of watching the faces of the two men. Her mind kept racing backward to the prairie that was home, back to that town, that old school. Josh Henning and Elihu Storey had been the "big boys" then, and Josh had been rough and crude, with hard, ugly hands and a raucous voice.

He said: "Claudia, why don't you get out or here? Elihu and I have got things to thresh out."

Elihu interposed. "Claudia knows all about my business. You stay where you are, Claudia."

"But don't make any notes. This is all confidential," Josh warned.

"Certainly," snapped Claudia stiffly, glad that her desk was backed into a corner. The lower drawer was wide and deep. She opened it, made a show of bringing out a box of tissues, left the drawer open halfway. The click of the little switch in the drawer that she touched was covered by the squeak of her rolling chair as she pushed it back. The hum of the little motor she had turned on was inaudible above the whir of "Who's got the money?" asked Elihu bluntly.

"Take roads," Josh went on, ignoring him. "You know how the road business stacks up—rights-of-way out of all reason and sense; labor wants the world and there's always somebody a contractor has got to sweeten, kick back half his profit like as not. We got to have help, Elihu, and you know how to get it—if you wasn't so mule-headed—always antagonizing the wrong people."

Elihu walked to the window, his shoulders bent. "All I can promise is that I'll see what can be done."

"You know what can be done," Josh raised his voice. "And you know how to do it. Switch your vote on that Illinois bill coming up, and they'll let a rider slide in that's been fixed up to take care of situations like our state."

"That's a rotten bill and you know it. I'm not going to switch my vote, Josh. I can't afford to do it. I've taken a stand on it."

Henning laughed, and there was a dry, nasty edge on the laugh. "You took care of your own family, all right. You took care of yourself good, too, if anybody should take a notion to dig back into Marsh Nichols' affairs. There's things ain't pretty, Elihu. We've got to keep the boys satisfied, keep anybody from trying to dig into things."

"Is that a threat, Josh?" Claudia asked boldly.

Josh scowled. "I'm not making any threats to anybody. I'm just pointing out to the senator here the hole we're in out home and how he can help us get out of it. And he's the only one can do it."

"By trading a vote on that bill you're talking about for a quick and easy chunk of government money, I see," said Claudia coolly.

"Elihu," Josh poised his heavy body. "I've sent you up here to take care of our state. You're just a hired man, as you might say. But the folks who hired you to represent em up here deserve some consideration."

He trumped out and Claudia walked quietly across the room, bolted the outer door. Then, pulling the big drawer wide, she clicked off her switch.

"I've got all of it on a tape, senator," she said calmly, "in case you need it."

Elihu looked stunned. "Good Lord! You mean you've got a recording of it—everything that was said?"

She lifted the lid of the file-drawer cabinet. "The mike's in here and the wire goes back here under the blotter. I'll disconnect everything now and lock the tape in the safe till they make a move."

DIET AND HEALTH

School Child's Health

By HERMAN H. BUNDESEN, M.D.

EVERY child should have a complete physical examination early in the school year.

Now that school bells are ringing all over the land and youngsters are back at their desks, be sure that your child is gone over by the family doctor.

Promotes Academic Success

Although children may seem perfectly well, a routine check-up may disclose impending diseases or defects that can and should be corrected. This type of preventive medicine not only spares the child from unnecessary suffering throughout his life, but it may contribute vastly to his success in learning.

A child with an unnoticed hearing or vision defect may do poorly at his studies through no fault of his own. Correction of the problem means that the child can operate on a normal level.

A Medical Shock

A recent study in a large city revealed some shocking facts. Seventy-five percent of the children examined had cavities or caries in their teeth, and almost seven percent had defects in the biting mechanism. Many youngsters had bone disorders, were underweight or overweight, or had some visual disturbance. Others had diseased tonsils. Others had hearing and breathing defects, while a small group had heart disease.

Every parent has a responsibility to see that his own boy or girl of school age has this thorough physical check-up now. Good health is certainly among life's greatest blessings and medical care can help the child attain it. This examination should include the necessary injections to prevent certain contagious diseases; it should also include tetanus toxoid injections for the prevention of lockjaw following injury.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

news behind the news

WASHINGTON — Republicans' concern over prospective loss of Congress in November is not based on ballot box reversals in Maine and other sections of the country, including heavy Democratic turnouts in primaries so far held. It is recognized that these upsets could be due to local conditions, personalities and issues, as some cautious Democrats concede.

Their real worry, based on a headquarters canvass of the results, derives from their realization that a definite pattern of anti-Republican revulsion shows up in all these tests. The GOP, they fear, has lost taste with almost every class or group of voters—urban and rural, farmers and factory workers, conservatives and liberals, the eggheads and independents, and especially among the women.

COOL TO IKE—President Eisenhower still holds the respect and admiration of the people, as the opponents' failure to attack him personally demonstrates. But he is not a beloved figure, and he does not arouse hero worship or mass enthusiasm. In general, he has disappointed his 1952 supporters.

Moreover, the policies which he has espoused, or which he has been forced to follow by unsympathetic Republicans on Capitol Hill, do not seem to have won the general approval of the electorate. He is blamed for the company he keeps by many who voted for him, despite their distrust of the party which nominated him.

As of today, and it is doubtful if Ike's calls for the election of Republicans can change the situation; impartial observers believe that Democratic capture of House and Senate is almost a certainty.

When Republican analysts talk frankly and privately, they attribute their sudden slump in popular esteem to Eisenhower's policies and to his trust in an insulated circle of advisers at the White House, especially the Eastern clique headed by Sherman Adams of New Hampshire.

Business-Professional Club Hears Program On Finances

Mrs. Paul Brown presented a program on financial aids to better living today and tomorrow following a dinner meeting of Business and Professional Women in the Mecca Restaurant.

Mrs. Brown used the theme of the Federation for this Year, "Adventure in Achievement", stressing the local club program "To help each member make her dollars do more for her living today and, even more important, tomorrow."

The topic was presented in five subdivisions with Miss Mary McLaughlin discussing methods of saving money. She stressed that the whole family must be interested in saving, rather than just the head of the family. The speaker stated that a budget should be made and records kept at all times in order to obtain best results.

Mrs. Brown discussed the various types of life insurance. She particularly stressed the educational fund, readjustment fund and the retirement fund. She also reviewed the mortgage plans on homes as outlined by savings and loans companies.

Mornoe Ladies Hear Talk On Good Lighting

The first Fall meeting of the Mornoe Area Home Demonstration group was held in Five Points Ladies Aid Hall.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Ralph Dennis. She introduced Mrs. Shoppe from Ohio State University, who gave a demonstration on the various types of light bulbs and the use for each. A check list for good lighting was "quantity, quality, placement, and distribution."

A recess was called at noon and a covered dish dinner was served. After lunch a business session was held. Ten members answered roll call.

Mrs. Shoppe then showed slides on lighting and distributed pamphlets on "See Your Home In A New Light," and "Lighting the Farmstead."

Those present were: Mrs. Leora Sayre, Mrs. Shoppe, Mrs. Ralph Dennis, Mrs. Ben Conley, Mrs. Wilma Conley, Mrs. Marguerite Snyder, Mrs. Kenneth Shell, Mrs. Loring Stoe, Mrs. Winfred Bidwell, Mrs. Paul Houser, Mrs. Byron Downs, and Mrs. Joe Armentrout.

The next meeting will be at 1 p. m. Oct. 15, in the Aid Hall at Five Points. The subject will be "Better Mends", demonstrated by Mrs. Winfred Bidwell and Mrs. Johnny Mowery. All home makers in this community are urged to attend.

It's Beef Stew Time!

STEW may properly be called classic because its history is long and illustrious. The first stewers, thousands of years ago, used pots of dried skin and dropped broiling hot stones into them to accomplish the cooking. Then some ancient genius invented fireproof pots, thus eliminating the need for the stones. The Greeks thought of adding salt.

Vegetables And Beef = Stew!
In modern terms, a "classic" beef stew is one accompanied by the famous trio of root vegetables — fresh carrots, onions and potatoes. Choose beef stew meat cut from lean, grass-fed beef which has the complete high quality protein, B vitamins and essential minerals found in all meat. Grass-fed beef, brought to market directly from the grassy plains, makes ideal stew meat and gives you a great deal of flavor for a small investment. The vegetables blend harmoniously with one another and with the beef; the taste and color harmony makes beef stew the classic that it is.

Like any other classic, beef stew can be enjoyed over and over. Unlike many classics, it can be altered with the happiest results. Vary your selection of herbs, choose your fresh vegetables according to the season, stew your meat without browning, or live up your cooking liquid with tomato juice or wine. Any one of these changes will give you a new and different beef stew, yet all will be as classically harmonious as the original.

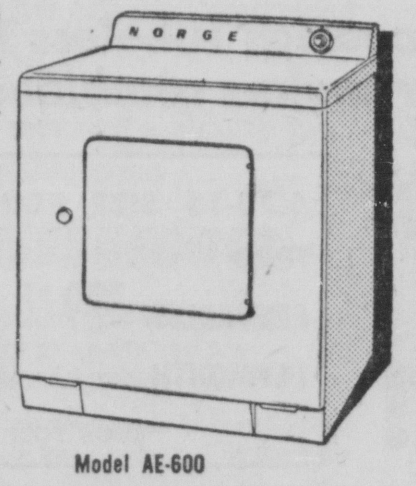

Classic Beef Stew
1½ pounds beef stew meat, cut in 1½-inch pieces
1½ teaspoons salt, divided
¼ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons lard
3 cups water
2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley
Blend together ¼ teaspoon of the salt, pepper and flour; roll pieces of meat in blended mixture; reserve left-over flour. Put lard in a heavy kettle; add beef and brown on all sides. Add water, ½ teaspoon of the salt, and herbs. Cover; simmer 2 to 2½ hours, or until meat is almost tender. Add remaining ¼ teaspoon salt, onions and carrots; cover and cook until vegetables are tender. Measure reserved flour. If necessary, add enough additional flour to make 2 tablespoons. Add 3 tablespoons water; stir to a smooth paste. Gradually add to stew, stirring constantly, until thickened. Turn into serving dish or serve in Dutch oven; spoon potatoes in border around edge. Sprinkle parsley over top. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

Mr. and Mrs. Elzi Brooks of Circleville Route 3 entertained as weekend guests Mr. and Mrs. Philip Bonham of Cincinnati and Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Wolfe and daughter, Joyce, of Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Jones and daughter, Genevieve, and Mrs. Mala Dawson of Kingston spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Baker of Circleville Route 4. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hinson, also of Circleville Route 4, were Sunday evening callers in the Baker home.

A General Guild meeting will be held at 8 p. m. Thursday in the Guild Room of Berger hospital. All guild members are invited to attend the session.

Mrs. J. C. Rader of 240 E. Franklin St. has returned to her home after spending a week with her sister, Mrs. G. A. Snider, and Mr. Snider of Muncie, Ind.

Pickaway County Association of Women's Clubs will meet at 8 p. m. Tuesday. All 1953-54 delegates are asked to be present and 1954-55 delegates will be welcomed to the session. Both outgoing and incoming officers are to be present for a board meeting at 7:30 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Watt have returned from New York City after accompanying their daughter, Miss Mary Jane Watt, to Bennett Junior College, Millbrook, N. Y.

Mrs. Maxwell Meyers, Mrs. Gertrude Grant and Mrs. Frank Zimmerman, all of Circleville, spent Sunday with Mrs. Anna Walsh of Mannington, W. Va.

First Fall meeting of GOP Booster club will be held at 7 p. m. Thursday in the home of Mrs. John Steinhauser of Williamsport. Members are to leave Circleville at 6:30 p. m.

United States Daughters of 1812 president, Mrs. Donald H. Watt, will serve as luncheon guest speaker of the Lucas Sullivan Chapter at an annual convention.

Circleville Chapter 90, Order of Eastern Star will meet at 8:00 p. m. Tuesday in the Masonic Temple. Past Matrons and Past Patrons will be honored at this meeting.

Miss Mary McLaughlin spent the week end in Barnesville.

All boys and parents who are interested in the continuation of the Cub Scout program at First Methodist church are asked to attend a meeting at 8 p. m. Monday in the church. The renewal of the charter will be a major item of business.

Family Circle Enjoys Outing

Fifty-one members and guests of Family Circle of Trinity Lutheran church enjoyed a weiner roast Sunday at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Struckman of near Ringgold.

Following a short business session conducted by the president, George Mallet, the group enjoyed croquet and volley ball sessions. The next meeting of the circle will be held Oct. 31 in the Lutheran parish house.

Business-Professional Club Hears Program On Finances

Mrs. Paul Brown presented a program on financial aids to better living today and tomorrow following a dinner meeting of Business and Professional Women in the Mecca Restaurant.

Mrs. Brown used the theme of the Federation for this year, "Adventure in Achievement", stressing the local club program "To help each member make her dollars do more for her living today and, even more important, tomorrow."

The topic was presented in five subdivisions with Miss Mary McLaughlin discussing methods of saving money. She stressed that the whole family must be interested in saving, rather than just the head of the family. The speaker stated that a budget should be made and records kept at all times in order to obtain best results.

Mrs. Brown discussed the various types of life insurance. She particularly stressed the educational fund, readjustment fund and the retirement fund. She also reviewed the mortgage plans on homes as outlined by savings and loans companies.

Mornoe Ladies Hear Talk On Good Lighting

The first Fall meeting of the Mornoe Area Home Demonstration group was held in Five Points Ladies Aid Hall.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Ralph Dennis. She introduced Mrs. Shoppe, who gave a demonstration on the various types of light bulbs and the use for each. A check list for good lighting was a "quantity, quality, placement, and distribution."

A recess was called at noon and a covered dish dinner was served. After lunch a business session was held. Ten members answered roll call.

Mrs. Shoppe then showed slides on lighting and distributed pamphlets on "See Your Home In A New Light," and "Lighting the Farmstead."

Those present were: Mrs. Leora Sayre, Mrs. Shoppe, Mrs. Ralph Dennis, Mrs. Ben Conley, Mrs. Wilma Conley, Mrs. Marguerite Snyder, Mrs. Kenneth Shell, Mrs. Loring Stoe, Mrs. Winfred Bidwell, Mrs. Paul Houser, Mrs. Byron Downs, and Mrs. Joe Armentrout.

The next meeting will be at 1 p. m. Oct. 15, in the Aid Hall at Five Points. The subject will be "Better Mends," demonstrated by Mrs. Winfred Bidwell and Mrs. Johnny Mowery. All home makers in this community are urged to attend.

WASHINGTON (AP)—What's an FBI report? How is it gathered? What goes into it? What's a raw file? Does the FBI evaluate its findings?

There's been heat, often more heat than light, in arguments over those questions as the FBI searches for subversive and security risks in government.

Say Jones works for a government agency in Baltimore. The FBI, with field offices all over the United States, gets a tip Jones is a Communist. It tells its Baltimore office to investigate.

Perhaps the information came from agents in the party in Baltimore. They can't be called to testify at a hearing for Jones. So the FBI tries to get other information and witnesses that can be used.

Or perhaps the information comes from a man named Smith. The FBI goes to him at once. Does he know for a fact Jones is a Communist? No. He heard it from Kelly. The FBI checks Kelly. He doesn't know either. Schwartz told him.

Schwartz is checked. He never told Kelly that Jones was a Communist. He had heard—he can't remember where—that Jones was at a party meeting June 8.

The FBI checks further, finds Jones couldn't have been at the meeting. He was in Florida on vacation June 8. The FBI Florida office found out that.

Since the FBI had picked up no other information linking Jones with communism, all along the line of its investigation, it drops the case. But suppose the opposite had happened.

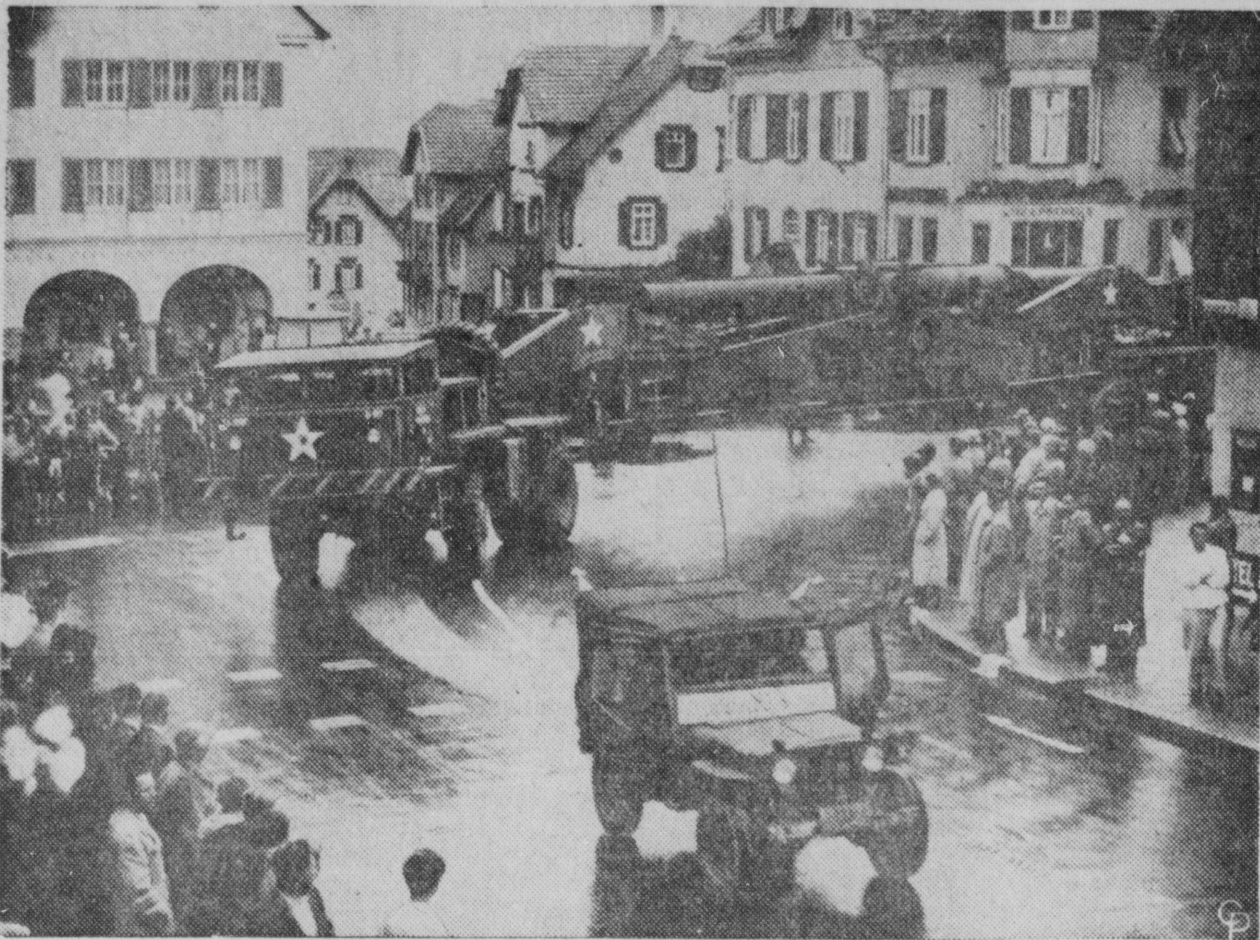

Suppose Schwartz, although unable to recall who told him, had stumbled on accurate information and the FBI finds Jones was at a party meeting. The investigation widens.

Besides the FBI's Baltimore agents now digging deeper into Jones' life, the help of FBI agents in half a dozen states may be required to investigate him through people who formerly knew him or worked with him.

In addition to checking on Jones, the FBI checks on informants to see if there is any motive, besides wanting to help the government, for what they say. A rumor given to the FBI might be based on a grudge.

In some cases the information will come from its own undercover men in the party. In others, the information will be from people who have proven to be reliable—or unreliable—in the past.

The agents put every scrap of information in the reports which they send to the FBI headquarters in Washington. There a special section examines them. They divide their reports into two parts: administrative and investigative. These two parts together are called the raw file. The administrative section is locked up in FBI files and is never disclosed outside the FBI. The investigative report is sent to the government agency which employs Jones.

WITH REARMAMENT a vital issue in Germany, unusual interest is attracted as one of America's atomic cannons passes through Freudenstadt during a tour of south German areas. Six of these mighty guns are now on the road through the Black Forest for a test of stability and mobility.

That administrative section contains information on investigative techniques, information on why the agents went to the various informants and people who wouldn't make statements at all, the names of confidential informants who never want their identity revealed outside the FBI, and the unconfirmed rumors and gossip which the agents have picked up but which have no direct connection with the case.

When an FBI agent gets information from an individual he tries to get the statement in writing, and signed. If the individual makes a written statement but doesn't want his name disclosed, the statement goes into the investigative report but his name is kept secret in the administrative report in FBI files.

In the investigative report which goes to Jones' agency, the FBI notes that this particular information came from an individual who has been reliable in the past, appears reliable from a check made on him, or has proven to be unreliable.

The FBI, when it turns its investigative report over to Jones' agency, does not evaluate it by saying whether the FBI thinks Jones is a Communist or not. It draws no conclusions and makes no recommendations. Any conclusions are left up to Jones' agency.

Locusts Slated To Face Battle

ROME (AP) —The Middle East's locusts are going to catch it in November. A task force of 50 field officers, 1,400 men, 200 jeeps and several light planes will attack the locust breeding grounds in the Arabian peninsula with poison baits and dusts.

Thirteen nations have pledged almost $1 1/4 million for this new effort by the Food and Agriculture Organization to wipe out the crop destroyers.

By Mac Noggle

At Auburn, N. Y., in Fort Hill cemetery, is an imposing granite monument—its face bearing the single name of "LOGAN" and this query: "Who is there to mourn for Logan?" Many pass this stone without any inkling of what it means or why it is there.

It marks the site of a Cayuga Indian village, and it is thought that Tah-gah-jute, Logan's Iroquois name, meaning "projecting eyelashes" was born here in 1725. His father, Shikellamy, a wise and able man, spent most of his life as an agent of the Great Council of the Iroquois Six Nations in dealing with the English settlers of Pennsylvania.

He was converted to Christianity by the Moravian missionaries and his son, Tah-gah-jute, was christened James Logan, after a close friend, the secretary to William Penn and later governor. Logan grew to manhood in Pennsylvania and was married—but an epidemic swept the region in 1747, and his wife and all of his children perished.

By 1770 he had married again and migrated to Ohio with his wife, his sister and a nephew. Logan was known here as a Mingo—which was the name applied to an Iroquois who had strayed beyond the territory of the parent nation.

HE FINALLY moved to Westfall. We know the tragic story of his life in this region from his immortal message to Lord Dunmore. For more than 175 years Logan's "Speech" has stood alone as the highest example of Indian eloquence and human despair.

This speech has been the subject of much controversy, but it is as well authenticated as any that has come to us from those early days. Lord Dunmore, Thomas Jefferson, and other distinguished men of the time accepted it as its face value.

The best evidence of the genuineness of the message—so Dr. Howard Jones always asserted—is that no white man of that day could have expressed in words the despair of the speech, because no white man thought that way. It is "In such a position of things, the United States cannot exchange with Europe on equal terms; and the want of reciprocity would render them the victim of a system which should induce them to confine their views to agriculture, and refrain from manufacturers.

A constant and increasing necessity, on their part, for the commodities of Europe, and only a partial and occasional demand for their own, in return, could not but expose them to a state of impoverishment, compared with the opulence to which their political and natural advantages authorize them to aspire."

It is suggested that Hamilton ghost-wrote Washington's "Farewell Address." This cannot be established beyond doubt and Hamilton does not need it to add to his exalted position in the history of this nation.

Hamilton was a bitter opponent of Thomas Jefferson; yet supported him for the Presidency against Aaron Burr, a great power in New York, who killed Hamilton in a duel at Weehawken in New Jersey. The loss was America's for Hamilton was probably the most constructive mind in the country after the death of Benjamin Franklin. He and Thomas Jefferson are the intellectual pillars of our society.

Seventh Tropical Storm Boils Up

MIAMI, Fla. (P)—The year's seventh tropical storm boiled up yesterday in the western Caribbean Sea but there were indications it would subside without reaching hurricane force.

The storm, named Gilda for the seventh letter of the alphabet, was expected to pass inland near Belize British Honduras.

The Atlanta weather bureau reported the storm is moving west-northwest at about eight miles per hour. Highest winds are estimated at 65 miles per hour over a small area north and east of the center.

Murder Witness Takes Own Life

FREDERICK, Md. (P)—A woman under bond as a witness in a homicide killed herself yesterday after she had called to her employer, "I think I'll shoot myself."

Sheriff Horace Alexander said Reva Wiles Clary, 38, was to have testified at the trial of William W. Bennett, shot herself in the head. She had testified last week before a grand jury which indicted Bennett on a charge of "assault with intent to murder" Charles H. Harmon.

The sheriff said the suicide occurred at the home of Albert Stollings near Lewistown, where she worked as a housekeeper.

Admiral Plans New Pole Trip

BOOTHBAY, Maine (P)—Rear Adm. Donald B. MacMillan, 79-year-old explorer returned only yesterday from his 30th trip to the Far North, but already is making plans for another voyage there next year.

In the three months since he sailed from here, MacMillan said his 81-foot schooner at times bucked winds of 120 miles an hour on the trip to within 11 degrees of the North Pole.

"Never had anything like it for gales and foul weather," said MacMillan, "but that makes it the more interesting. I'm planning to go back next year."

Tight Parker Says He's Sorry

OTTAWA (P)—Ed Morris fumed a while when he found his parked car so hemmed in, front and rear, by two other automobiles that he couldn't ease out. Then he wrote this note and attached it to the windshield of the closest: "Thanks. I took a trolley bus."

Returning to his car hours later, he found another note wrapped around a 25-cent coin. It said: "This will pay your trolley fare home and back. Sorry."

ASC Chairman Here Announces New Acreage Allotment Rulings

Elimination of total acreage allotments by the United States Department of Agriculture, an important revision for district farmers, has been announced here by Wayne E. Luckhart, chairman of the Pickaway County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

The total acreage provision has been removed from the program to influence the use of acres diverted from allotment crops in 1955. Local officials said this will permit increased flexibility in planting schedules for those farms on which total acreage allotment rules would apply, to limit total production.

However, compliance with all individual crop allotments—called the "cross-compliance principle"—will still be a condition for price support eligibility. There are allotments now on wheat, corn and some types of tobacco in Pickaway County.

Under the revised program, officials here explained, no distinction will be made next year as to the size of farm operation in regard to diverted acres. There will be no total acreage allotments.

THE BASIC requirement for price support eligibility will be in staying within wheat and corn allotments. Special provisions are listed in regard to two crops, or groups of crops. One applies to age below this level, but marketing quotas do not.

Farmers are accustomed to thinking of the "15 or less" wheat acreages as subject only to loss of price support on that crop. The revised diverted acre provision will be in line with this precedent.

However, compliance with all crop allotments (including smaller wheat allotments) is a condition for eligibility for assistance under the Agricultural Conservation Program, as requested by action of Congress.

Surgeons at Children's Hospital removed Wayne's ulcer Saturday. They said that never in the hospital's 53-year history had they discovered a true peptic ulcer in so young a patient.

Notre Dame's Challengers May Kill Each Other Off

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Notre Dame, apparently headed for new glories under young Terry Brennan, may just stand aside and watch other top contenders for national football honors kill off themselves.

With the season only two weeks old, four teams picked to challenge the Irish for the coveted No. 1 role.

Texas, Illinois, Michigan State and Georgia Tech — already have been beaten.

Another, Oklahoma, has had a tight squeeze, having to score twice in the fading minutes to beat Texas as Christian 21-16, and the Sooners may not be as fortunate Oct. 9 against Texas at Dallas.

At least one other recognized power, and possibly more, will fall this week-end when action increases with an imposing intersectional schedule featuring a clash of two Bowl giants — Maryland and UCLA.

Maryland, last year's mythical national champion, and UCLA, rated the best on the Pacific Coast, tangled Friday night at Los Angeles in a game which is bound to throw new light on the national picture.

Wisconsin is at Michigan State, Tennessee at Duke and Mississippi at Villanova in other games involving teams which have caught the early fancy of those looking for a bandwagon.

Notre Dame, meanwhile, appears a solid bet to survive its own rugged schedule and go through to the honors for which the team was picked in the pre-season Associated Press poll.

For those who might have been skeptical that the 26-year-old Brennan could step into the shoes of Knute Rockne and Frank Leahy, the Fighting Irish had the answer Saturday in a 21-0 triumph over a big, strong Texas team which had

Record Pool Seen For '54 World Series

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees will be missing from a scene for the first time in six years as the Cleveland Indians and New York Giants come to grips Wednesday in what is almost certain to be the richest of all 51 World Series.

With two huge arenas — Cleveland's Municipal Stadium seating 86,000 and New York's Polo Grounds seating 52,000 — this could produce a record pool for the players with each winning share totaling $10,000 and each losing share of $8,000. The players share in the receipts of the first four games.

Should the series go the full distance of seven games — and many experts believe it will — a new attendance mark is certain to be set. The first two games in the best-of-seven will be played at the Polo Grounds, Wednesday and Thursday. All games will begin at 1:00 p. m. (EST).

Then, with no interruption for travel, the battleground will shift to Cleveland for games on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Should the issue still be undecided, the scene will shift back to New York next Monday and Tuesday.

The series should develop into one of the most exciting and closely fought in many years. Led by two colorful managers — Al Lopez and Leo Durocher — the Indians and Giants are both opportunistic clubs, featuring standout pitching, tight defense, clutch hitting and ability to come from behind with last ditch rallies.

The Indians already have been established as 17 to 1 favorites,

Tiger End Remains Hospitalized Following Linden Game Injury

By DAVE BROWN
Herald Sports Writer

Ralph Jones, Circleville High School varsity end, remains in University Hospital in Columbus Monday following injuries he received Friday night.

Jones hurt his right side just below his ribs and was taken to the hospital after the CHS-Linden game for observation. X-rays failed to show any broken bones or serious injury. He is scheduled for release Monday.

However, Jones is now suffering from partial amnesia, according to hospital reports. The guess is that Jones' injury was so painful, rather than serious, that he suffered a mild case of shock which brought on a partial loss of memory.

Jones apparently can remember events up to the beginning of last week. He seems to realize that certain things were supposed to happen.

BUT HOSPITAL officials assert the condition is only temporary and not serious. Jones is being held an extra day pending further tests to see if any nerves have been affected. Reports state that he may have been kicked in the head during the game in addition to his side injury.

Aside from another injury to Tom Valentine, which was minor, the Tigers seem in good shape following their 30 to 13 defeat. There was no question but that they were outmanned during the first half of the game when Linden scored all of their points.

The Tigers, although losing two straight games, are far from a disheartened team. As a matter of fact, in both the Athens game and the one with Linden, they came out in the second half and played like demons although far behind in the scoring column.

Tough breaks have plagued the team in the opening moments of both games. But this cannot excuse some very glaring defensive errors in the CHS play.

In both games so far, opponents have been able to effectively run the Tigers' ends. Linden was using a spinner, with a fake handoff to a back going into the line, and then a pitchout to another back skirting the end.

BUT IF SPIRIT could count in the score then CHS would be way ahead. For nothing gladdens a coach's heart than to have his boys fight until the final gun no matter what the score is. And the Tigers have already done that twice.

Friday night, the Tigers play host to Wilmington at "Parents Night" here. It will be the Tigers' first home game of the season.

Wilmington's Hurricanes have also dropped their first two games but by much larger scores. In their opener, the Hurricanes got blasted 38 to 0 by Xenia Central. Friday night they dropped a 13 to 0 decision to Lebanon.

So the Tigers will be out to make it three whitewashes in a row.

Reserved Tickets On Sale For Week

Anyone still wishing to obtain season reserved football tickets may do so this week by coming to Circleville High School anytime during the school day.

The tickets sell for $4 and entitle the owner to a good reserved seat for all four CHS home games.

Anyone desiring to obtain reserved seats for the Wilmington game only may likewise get such tickets by coming to the school or calling a Stoope Club member.

Stoope Club members will be on duty all this week just inside the main door of the high school.

Basketball Meeting

Managers of all independent basketball teams in Pickaway County are reminded of the organization meeting Wednesday at which time a county independent league will be set up. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p. m. in the Circleville High School social rooms on Corwin St.

Racing silks had their origin at a Newmarket, England in 1762.

Second String Gives Strength To Cleveland

Pennant-Winner's Powerful Finish Is Credit To Substitutes

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland's Indians snapped New York's five-year hold on the American League pennant and then broke a 27-year-old record for winning games because they finally rounded up enough good second line pitchers and some bench strength.

That's the opinion of Manager Al Lopez, who was plenty tired of finishing in second place.

Reviewing the season today, Lopez generously praised such long time Tribe pitching stars as Bob Lemon (23-7), Early Wynn (23-11), and Mike Garcia (19-8) and such hitters as Bobby Avila, Larry Doby and Al Rosen.

But he bore down in discussing his reserves. They were the difference between 92 victories last year and the record 111 this year, the difference between winning and finishing 8½ games back.

The added pitching came from veteran Bob Feller, two castoffs from the Detroit Tigers and two rookies. Feller won 13 and lost 3. Art Houtteman, traded by Detroit in 1953, hit a comeback with a 15-7 record. Hal Newhouse, sore-armed and aging, was released unconditionally by Detroit and showed up at the Indians' training camp this spring. He stuck around to post a 7-2 mark.

Don Mossi and Ray Narleski were the prize rookies, working mainly in relief. Mossi, up from Tulsa, won 6 and lost 1. Narleski, up from Indianapolis, won 3 and lost 3.

This year the Tribe hung relentlessly to first place despite injuries that benched Rosen from third base, George Strickland from short and Avila from second for long stretches.

Moving in were Al Smith, second year youngster who filled in at third and then won a starting spot in left field; Sam Dente, who worked last season at Indianapolis, and filled in when Strickland was hurt and infielder Hank Majeski.

Vic Wertz, obtained from Baltimore on a trade, never solved the first base situation, but he did scare opposing pitchers. Lopez sent big Luke Easter back to the minors at the beginning of the year and tried to find a fill-in at first. He admits he never did get a man who could both field and hit, but he finally settled on Wertz, a converted outfielder.

"Until then we had only two long ball hitters, Doby and Rosen," Lopez explained. "By adding Wertz we kept additional pressure on the pitchers and it paid off." Doby batted out 32 homers, Rosen 24 and Wertz 15.

Possibly the Tribe would have wrapped it up long before Labor Day except for Rosen's broken right index finger. As the most valuable player in 1953, Rosen had 43 homers. His average dropped from .336 to .300.

Cleveland's batting strength was not much different this season from earlier ones and left something to be desired, although Avila led the league with .341 and Doby topped it in home runs and runs batted in, with 126.

Possibly the flashiest addition was Smith. A speedy base runner, Smith drew more than his share of walks. He played only 47 games with Cleveland in 1953 and had only a .240 batting average.

Smith got into the lineup at Boston April 29 when the Indians were in sixth place and has been around ever since, with a .281 average, 11 homers and 50 runs batted in.

Lopez contends this team has no

Colonels Win Playoff In AA

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Louisville Colonels, in winning the American Association playoff crown, put Manager Pinky Higgins in an enviable position. He'll have a chance to get even with the landlord if Montreal takes the International League playoff title from Syracuse. The best four-of-seven series now is tied one-all.

Since the winner meets Louisville in the Junior World Series, Higgins is pulling for Montreal and its pilot Max Macon, who rented his home here to the Louisville manager for the summer.

"From what he charged me for rent, I think he owes me money," Higgins quipped yesterday as the Colonels celebrated a 3-1 decision over pennant-winning Indianapolis.

Only 1,092 fans paid to see the Athletics play the Orioles at Connie Mack Stadium on June 4.

Legal Snag Threatened In Move To Clean Up Comics Here

New Law May Be Needed To Complete Task

New York State's Statute Seen As Possible Pattern

A Circleville minister told his congregation Sunday "the problem is still with us" in reference to the sale and circulation of harmful "comic books."

Insofar as local action against the thrill booklets is concerned, his reference presumably was to the threatened snag in law enforcement here over interpretation of the state statute covering sale of harmful literature. Police Chief Elmer Merriman has declared it "isn't easy to say when a magazine is harmful and when it isn't", and he has asked for a more specific ruling as a guide for enforcement.

Disagreeing with Merriman's viewpoint, Pickaway County Prosecutor William Ammer planned to confer with the chief to clear the way for a more rigid check on magazines sold in district stores. Nevertheless, it was evident the move to clean up the objectionable "comics" may be headed toward an argument over the meaning of words and legal phraseology.

Two district church groups—Pontious Evangelical United Brethren Church and Calvary EUB Church—are among the organizations on public record here against the fake "comics." A warning for local magazine dealers to eliminate the harmful "comics" was issued through Ammer on Aug. 17, and the prosecutor has drawn public attention to the fact that the 30-day grace period has now expired.

CIRCLEVILLE gained prominence in the nationwide fight against the fake "comics" when the official warning followed a series of articles in The Circleville Herald. Many other communities in this section of the state, Ammer disclosed, have queried him since that time as to what form of action is being taken. And what effect it is having.

Meanwhile, in the event present law is not specific enough to cover the "comic book" menace, the prosecutor pointed out a local law could be passed for that particular purpose. If such a step becomes necessary, it may be facilitated by Mayor M. E. (Jack) Sensenbrenner of Columbus, a Circleville native. Sensenbrenner recently ordered a full-scale legal attack on harmful "comics" in the Columbus area, and simultaneously promised to send Circleville officials a copy of any new law found necessary in the Columbus campaign.

Since that time, another possibility along this line was detailed in the September issue of The Ladies Home Journal, for which columnist Dorothy Thompson wrote a special article condemning the dime thrillers.

Referring to a new law on the harmful type of "comics", the Thompson article reads in part:

"The National Association of Retail Druggists has gone on record against the sale of any such printed matter to minors. No retailer can be compelled to accept the trash for resale."

"THE NEW New York State law, effective since July 1, 1954, therefore amends the penal code to prohibit 'tie-in' sales, forbidding 'any person, copartnership or corporation, to make as a condition to a sale or delivery for resale of any paper, magazine, book, periodical or publication, matter reasonably believed by the purchaser or consignee to be obscene, lewd, lascivious, filthy, indecent or disgusting.'"

"The New York law, passed after extensive hearings and investigations, also makes it a felony 'willfully to sell or offer for sale or to deliver to a minor any book, pamphlet, magazine or printed paper principally made up of pictures, devoted to the publication and exploitation of fictional deeds of violent bloodshed, lust or immorality, so massed as to reasonably tend to incite minors to violence or depraved or immoral acts.'"

"Legislation pending or passed in other states indicates that the great majority of Americans believe it necessary to take legal measures to halt the distribution of mental and psychological poison, especially to minors."

"To say that such corruptive literature cannot legally be halted without endangering free speech is to admit that our courts cannot exercise sound judgment or act to prevent crime."

"The issue is not the right of free speech, but the right to peddle mental marijuana for money. For that matter, there have always been, and must be, restrictions on free speech."

"It is restricted, for instance, by the laws of libel and slander. It does not include, as a Supreme Court ruled, 'the right falsely to cry fire in a crowded theater,' or to incite to violence."

The first Arctic exploration was made in 1587 by John Davis of Britain.

Permits Reveal Late Summertime Builders Ended Season Strong

At least seven of the home building projects covered by the latest building permits here were jobs estimated at and above the $10,000 level.

Two of the seven were estimated above $15,000. Strong activity in the local building field during the closing weeks of the summer reflected the high optimism among building trade leaders throughout the state.

A residence planned by George Brokaw of Laurelville on Lot 32 along Linwood Ave. is figured to cost $20,000. And an estimate of $17,000 was listed when Charles W. Cochran of N. Scoto St., acting for the Church of Christ, was issued a permit for residential construction on Lot 15, Moats Drive.

ALSO AMONG the latest permits issued by the City Zoning and Planning Commission, showing applicant, purpose of the permit, and estimated costs, were the following:

Ernie Weiler; residence at 826 Atwater Ave.; $15,000.

Chester Blue; residence on Wilson Ave.; $12,500.

Harley W. Brown of Cedar Heights Rd.; residence and garage, Lot 27, Sunset Drive; $10,000.

Harley W. Brown of Cedar Heights Rd.; residence and garage, Lot 28, Sunset Drive; $10,000.

Ray Moats of Circleville Route 4; residence on Sunset Drive; $10,000.

John Magill of 124 W. Main St.; rebuilding store-room; $8,000.

Thurman Miller of 118 W. Ohio St.; residence and garage on W. Mill St.; $8,000.

Joe Moats; residence on Moats Drive; $7,500.

Dr. V. D. Kerns of 143 E. Main St.; office addition; $3,500.

Boyer's Hardware of S. Court; addition to store; $2,500.

Louis A. Martin of 147 W. Main St.; rear; garage; $1,200.

Lumber Concern Receives Award

The Circleville Lumber Co., of 150 Edison Ave., dealers in lumber and building supplies, has been given an honor roll award by Johns-Manville, national manufacturers of building materials.

Johns-Manville said the award, in the form of a certificate, is given in recognition of proven integrity and in contribution to better housing.

The award was instituted because of recent disclosures about "rackets" in the home improvement field which may have been damaging to reputable firms. The FHA probe points out to homemakers the importance of dealing with local established firms and avoiding "fly-by-night" concern that employ questionable selling practices and have frequently charged homeowners far more than the job was worth.

In accepting the award, T. O. Gilliland, president of the Circleville Lumber Co. said, "I look upon this award as a valuable symbol to home owners of this community. It typifies the close cooperation between the national manufacturer of quality building materials and the established dealer to assure the homeowners the ultimate value for his building or remodeling dollar."

Italian Farmer Finds Hoss Thief

TRENTO, Italy (AP)—Farmer Ermenegildo Rebellato got out his old bicycle and went trailing when rustlers made off with his horse.

In three weeks and 300 miles of peddling, he got results:

First he recovered the horse, 200 miles from home, in the barn of a man who said he bought it from gypsies for $50 and a mule.

Then Rebellato pushed on 100 miles farther and collared two gypsies. Police are holding them for horse theft.

A Statement from the President of Sohio about BORON GASOLINE

Exaggerated claims as to gasoline quality are creating confusion in the public mind and making meaningless many of the current statements about motor fuels.

We believe Boron Supreme Gasoline is an unusual discovery, and one with considerable significance for every motorist. This statement is backed by years of research and hundreds of thousands of miles of road testing.

If the experience of many thousand drivers is any criterion, the typical car owner will be able to sense early in his use that Boron Gasoline is something new and quite unique. But we would far rather have him tell us than vice versa!

It has long been a tradition at Sohio that no claims be made for any product that are not more than matched by its performance; Boron Gasoline will be no exception.

We believe both the public interest and our own will be served best by such a policy!

Legal Snag Threatened In Move To Clean Up Comics Here

New Law May Be Needed To Complete Task

New York State's Statute Seen As Possible Pattern

A Circleville minister told his congregation Sunday "the problem is still with us" in reference to the sale and circulation of harmful "comic books."

Insofar as local action against the thrill booklets is concerned, his reference presumably was to the threatened snag in law enforcement here over interpretation of the state statute covering sale of harmful literature. Police Chief Elmer Merriman has declared it "isn't easy to say when a magazine is harmful and when it isn't," and he has asked for a more specific ruling as a guide for enforcement.

Disagreeing with Merriman's viewpoint, Pickaway County Prosecutor William Ammer planned to confer with the chief to clear the way for a more rigid check on magazines sold in district stores. Nevertheless, it was evident the move to clean up the objectionable "comics" may be headed toward an argument over the meaning of words and legal phraseology.

Two district church groups—Pontious Evangelical United Brethren Church and Calvary EUB Church—are among the organizations on public record here against the fake "comics." A warning for local magazine dealers to eliminate the harmful "comics" was issued through Ammer on Aug. 17, and the prosecutor has drawn public attention to the fact that the 30-day grace period has now expired.

CIRCLEVILLE gained prominence in the nationwide fight against the fake "comics" when the official warning followed a series of articles in The Circleville Herald. Many other communities in this section of the state, Ammer disclosed, have queried him since that time as to what form of action is being taken. And what effect it is having.

Meanwhile, in the event present law is not specific enough to cover the "comic book" menace, the prosecutor pointed out a local law could be passed for that particular purpose. If such a step becomes necessary, it may be facilitated by Mayor M. E. (Jack) Sensenbrenner of Columbus, a Circleville native. Sensenbrenner recently ordered a full-scale legal attack on harmful "comics" in the Columbus area, and simultaneously promised to send Circleville officials a copy of any new law found necessary in the Columbus campaign.

Since that time, another possibility along this line was detailed in the September issue of The Ladies Home Journal, for which columnist Dorothy Thompson wrote a special article condemning the dime thrillers.

Referring to a new law on the harmful type of "comics," the Thompson article reads in part: "The National Association of Retail Druggists has gone on record against the sale of any such printed matter to minors. No retailer can be compelled to accept the trash for resale."

"THE NEW New York State law, effective since July 1, 1954, therefore amends the penal code to prohibit 'tie-in' sales, forbidding 'any person, copartnership or corporation, to make as a condition to a sale or delivery for resale of any paper, magazine, book, periodical or publication, matter reasonably believed by the purchaser or consignee to be obscene, lewd, lascivious, filthy, indecent or disgusting."

"The New York law, passed after extensive hearings and investigations, also makes it a felony 'willfully to sell or offer for sale or to deliver to a minor any book, pamphlet, magazine or printed paper principally made up of pictures, devoted to the publication and exploitation of fictional deeds of violent bloodshed, lust or immorality, so massed as to reasonably tend to incite minors to violence or depraved or immoral acts."

"Legislation pending or passed in other states indicates that the great majority of Americans believe it necessary to take legal measures to halt the distribution of mental and psychological poison, especially to minors."

"To say that such corruptive literature cannot legally be halted without endangering free speech is to admit that our courts cannot exercise sound judgment or act to prevent crime."

"The issue is not the right of free speech, but the right to peddle mental marijuana for money. For that matter, there have always been, and must be, restrictions on free speech."

"It is restricted, for instance, by the laws of libel and slander. It does not include, as a Supreme Court ruled, 'the right falsely to cry fire in a crowded theater,' or to incite to violence."

The first Arctic exploration was made in 1587 by John Davis of Britain.
